WIFE FINDS BODY AFTER PLANT MISHAP

Roland E. Stahl, 31, Dies When Clothing Catches on Belt of Air Compressor.

SUFFERS BROKEN NECK

Wife Discovers Body on Wheel When She Calls For Husband at Memorials Company.

When Mrs. Roland E. Stahl, 536 South Diamond street, went to the J. K. Johnson Memorials company, 12 East First street, to call for her husband yesterday she found him dead, his body literally wrapped around the four-foot flywheel of an air compressor.

Only about 20 minutes before she arrived, her husband's clothing had caught on the belt moving between the wheel and the compressor. The belt quickly drew him onto the flywheel and pressed his head against a heavy pulley, breaking his neck, Coroner L. B. McCullough believes. His clothing was pulled from his body, gathering at his neck so tightly that strangulation was also possible.

Mrs. Stahl ran screaming to a gasoline station next door where Kent Rummel, Mansfield coal dealer, met her and hurried with Mrs. Stahl back to the Johnson plant.

There he found Stahl, 31, widely known church worker, and co-operator of the Johnson company, on the flywheel of the air compressor machine. The machine had stopped when the belt slipped off the track.

Rummel told police that he had to cut away Stahl's clothing before he could release the body from the wheel. Police, the coroner and an ambulance were then summoned.

Kenneth E. Sampsel, 16½ E. st First street, told police that he had talked to Stahl at 5:15 p. m. and that Stahl had been showing him a new attachment which had been put on the compressor. Sampsell said that Stahl had been working with the attachment for several days.

The air compressor is used by the company in the chiseling and

BURNS COST LIFE

Child Dies of Injuries Suffered In Stove Explosion.

BUTLER—Burns sustained last Saturday when a gasoline stove exploded in the home, claimed the life yesterday of Ramona Joan Hively, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hively of north of here.

The child died in Mansfield General hospital.

Surviving are the parents, and a brother, Everett, and a sister, Wyona.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the George funeral home. Rev. Woodrow Faulkner, pastor of the Butler Evangelical church will officiate. Burial will be in Hively cemetery, east of here.

FREED UNDER BOND

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Miss Louise Dewald, 64, was free under $5,000 bond today, after pleading innocent to a charge of embezzling $19,750 of city funds. A state examiner's report showed Miss Dewald, who resigned recently as city commissioner of cemeteries, had restored all shortages except $590 in interest.

2 CLEARED IN BUTLER CASE

Third Fined $50 In Assault Hearing Growing Out of School Strike.

Trial of three Butler men accused of assaulting two village school board members during a student strike at the school Feb. 6 ended abruptly late yesterday in Mansfield municipal court when charges against two of the men were dropped and the third pleaded guilty. The hearing ended before the defense had presented any of its witnesses.

A $50 fine was assessed against Raymond Stevens, 31, after he changed his plea to guilty. The board members, Rupert Roberts and Kinsey Morgan, withdrew their charges against Stevens' older brother, Archie Stevens, 39, Worthington township trustee, and Clarence G. Tugend, 39, former member of the county board of education.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch told the men involved in the case that "You owe an obligation to set an example of calm and deliberate action rather than by the conduct displayed in this matter."

He said he was speaking "for the benefit of the entire Butler community" when he added that "the ill effects of this incident can't be measured by the impression left on adults in this courtroom, but by the permanent impression on young people in your community. The answer to this difficult situation is in getting together and compromising your dif-

Orders Physical Exams for Every Able Registrant

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Every man registered for the draft who is not "obviously incapacitated for some type of service" will be required to take an army physical examination under the new speed-up of induction of draftees.

Edward S. Neese, chief state draft inspector, said today that a broad program "designed to help the army make an inventory of the physical status of every man registered for selective service" will go into effect March 15.

Induction of draftees will be accelerated on that date with elimination of the waiting period after completion of the army examination. After that date men will be inducted im-

Jailed Indian Spins Heap Big Yarns

Adventurer Once Fought In Army Under General MacArthur's Father.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

A white-haired Sioux Indian who fought under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's father in the Philippines 43 years ago and has lived the adventures of a fiction character is winning the admiration of the Richland county jail inmates with his stories of thrilling experiences in every part of the world.

Serving nine days in jail for trespassing on Pennsylvania railroad property, the 64-year-old Indian, Columbus Kerschoga, has nothing else to do but recall his adventuresome life as a soldier, traveler, and railroad worker.

Next to the army, the railroads are his favorite topic. He worked for years in the Pennsylvania shops in Columbus, Crestline, and other mid-western cities and towns. Although New Mexico is his native state, he's lived in Ohio since 1913, most of the time in Columbus and Cincinnati.

The elderly Indian remembers Gen. Douglas MacArthur, hero of this war in the Philippines, as a "tall, thin young soldier who was learning about the island with his father back in 1899."

He didn't know the youthful MacArthur well enough to speak to him, but he recognized him on sight and admired the young man's qualities as a soldier, Kerschoga recalled.

The ruddy-skinned adventurer and former soldier enlisted in the army in 1898, he said, and was sent to the Philippines with the 25th Infantry, Signal corps, during the Spanish-American war. There he served three years under Gen. Arthur MacArthur, father of the Gen. MacArthur idolized by this generation.

"Those islands are hot and wet and a bad place to fight," he remembered, adding that Gen. MacArthur "ought to know all about them, because he grew up there."

The elder MacArthur "took the railroads in the Philippines and then gave them back to the people after the war," Kerschoga said.

When there was no more action in the Philippines, the adventure-seeking Indian went to Japan and then to China to fight in the Box-

CRIPPS NEXT?

London Source Predicts He Will Replace Churchill.

LONDON—(AP)—An extremely reliable and well-informed political source, commenting on the failure of recent cabinet changes to quiet public and parliamentary criticism of the government, said today there was every likelihood that Sir Stafford Cripps would replace Winston Churchill as Britain's prime minister.

This source went so far as to predict that the doughty Churchill, whose speeches pulled Britain together in the bitter summer of 1940 and made him one of the modern world's greatest figures, would be unseated within three months.

After bitter parliamentary debates it must be emphasized, this source said, that while Churchill is vastly popular in the United States he has steadily lost the strength of his hold on the British masses since the fall of Crete last June.

Meters Freeze, So They're Turned Parallel to Curb

Boals Announces Change-Back, Declares Freezing Hit Efficiency; 125 Tickets Issued Last Month.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals announced today that Mansfield's 414 parking meters were being turned back to their original position, parallel to the curb, to prevent them from being frozen by ice, snow and rain.

Boals said that scores of the meters were frozen during the past month and that it had been impossible for the traffic squad to keep an adequate check on them.

Because of the freezing of the meters and the contention of many motorists that they were unable to put money in parking meters, Boals said that the giving of traffic tickets for parking violations fell off in February from an average of 500 tickets to approximately 125.

The meters were turned at a 90 degree angle to the street last fall after it was suggested that this would aid policemen in checking a long line of them at once for violations and would also aid motorists in finding available parking spaces.

Boals said that the ice and snow

Sinkings Bring Proposal for Gasoline Price Boost, Curfew

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Definite word may be expected this week-end on whether nation-wide gasoline rationing will be ordered to alleviate growing oil shortages on both coasts, Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes said today.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sinkings and war diversion of tankers brought proposals today for higher gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil prices in the east and for night and Sunday closing of filling stations throughout the country.

The petroleum industry war council, an advisory group of oil company executives, requested the price boost, understood to be eight-tenths of a cent per gallon for gasoline, as an offset to higher transportation costs resulting from large emergency movement of petroleum by rail tank cars.

A committee of the council, appealing last night to Leon Henderson, the price administrator, told him the use of rail cars in the eastward haul, replacing the lost and diverted tankers, would add about $115,000,000 this year to the transportation costs.

The industry executives broadened a previous proposal for the gasoline station curfew and Sunday closing in the east, suggesting that such a program be instituted throughout the country.

The increase in the prices of gasoline and other petroleum products, if granted, would be effective in the 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia, the same area covered by the gasoline curtailment program last summer.

Kalbfleisch Fills Vacancy on Rationing Board.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, chairman of the Mansfield area civilian defense committee, announced today that he had appointed Emerson S. Weller, 383 Overlook road, as a member of Mansfield's rationing board to succeed Fred B. Wolff, who resigned Tuesday.

Wolff resigned after accepting the appointment as service-safety director to succeed C. M. Crafton. Weller, who is former secretary-treasurer of the Perfect Rubber company, retired from business in 1936.

Weller said today at noon that he had accepted the appointment and that he would attend the rationing board's meeting today from 2 to 4 p. m. The board originally appointed to ration tires but since has taken over the rationing of new autos and sugar.

SECOND CONCUSSION

First Blast at Iowa Site Killed Thirteen In December; Cause Unknown.

(By Associated Press)

BURLINGTON, Ia.—Death toll of an earth-shaking explosion at the Burlington ordnance plant stood unofficially at 16 early today while rescue workers searched the shattered, fire-scarred ruins of a TNT melt unit for possibly other victims.

The blast blew apart the three-story brick, steel and concrete building on production line 3 of the shell-loading plant shortly before midnight last night.

One workman said he was but a few hundred feet away when he heard the blast.

"It looked like pictures I have seen of volcano eruptions," he commented.

It was the second such blast in less than three months at the 20,000-acre shell-loading plant. The first, Dec. 12, brought death to 13 workmen.

Witnesses said the explosion was accompanied by a sheet of flame 300 feet high and a terrific roar that resounded through Burlington, five miles from the plant, and surrounding countryside.

The concussion was felt at Fort Madison, Ia., 20 miles away.

Officials said an army investigating board was scheduled to leave Washington for Burlington today. A similar board inquired into the first blast but its report was not made public.

Col. Otto M. Jank, commanding officer, said he had "no idea as to the cause of the blast at the present time."

He said other production lines continued operations and the explosion would not interfere greatly with operation of the plant.

Ashlander Among 100 Men Missing On Jacob Jones'

While two Mansfielders awaited anxiously today for word from their nephew, John Burns, 19, of Clay county, Ky., believed to have been a member of the crew of the U. S. Destroyer Jacob Jones which was sunk last Saturday off the New Jersey coast, Michael Embreus, sr., of Ashland learned that his son, George, 28, was among the more than 100 men missing from the destroyer.

Tolman Burns, 53 South Linden road, and D. L. Burns, 250 Rae avenue, said their nephew was on the Jacob Jones, according to the last information they had from his father, Perry Burns, of Clay county, Ky. Members of the youth's family have heard nothing from him since the destroyer was torpedoed. He had been in the navy 16 months.

Embreus said his son has been in the navy four years and on the Jacob Jones since last September. He was a store-keeper, second class.

The Ashland sailor has two brothers in the armed service, Michael Embreus, jr., is in the air corps at Vernon, Texas, and Tony Embreus is at Camp Shelby, Miss.

Japs Threaten Batavia, Allied Headquarters

Invasion Hordes Overrun Island, Capture Six Key Towns, Bomb Last Harbor Where United Nations Could Land Reinforcements.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson asserted today that Great Britain and the United States will continue their "intense support" of the Dutch in the East Indies and that our air aid there has increased heavily during the past week.

(By Associated Press)

Java appeared doomed to conquest today as Japan's invasion hordes captured at least six key towns, imminently threatened both the old capital, Batavia, and the Allied headquarters at Bandoeng, and bombed the last possible harbor at which United Nations reinforcements might debark.

Starkly summarizing the crisis, a bulletin from Dutch headquarters acknowledged that the enemy was "advancing continually" with fierce battles now raging "all over the island."

The communique said Rising Sun bombers were also attempting to knock out the port of Tjilatjap, on the Java south coast, to prevent either reinforcement or escape of the island's defenders.

A bulletin from N. E. I. headquarters indicated that the Japanese invaders were virtually overrunning the 622-mile-long island of Java, advancing in many sectors despite "heroic and courageous resistance" by American, British, Australian and Dutch soldiers.

Official reports placed the enemy within 10 miles of Batavia, the capital, which the government had already left, and within 25 miles of the new government seat at Bandoeng.

The communique said the Japanese had numerical superiority both on the ground and in the air, and that a regular front no longer existed because of Japanese infiltration tactics.

While the Dutch made no mention of a new landing, British military quarters said Japanese reinforcements had arrived on the west coast, presumably in a thrust toward the partially destroyed capital, Batavia, and that Allied troops immediately launched fiery counterattacks.

An N. E. I. communique said the invaders had captured Kalidjati airdrome near Bandoeng, the inland mountain city headquarters of the Dutch command, and at least three towns in western Java.

Another Japanese column striking southward from Rembang advanced to Bodjanegara, less than 50 miles from the big Allied naval base at Soerabaja, in eastern Java.

Still another enemy force took Soerakarta (Solo), in the center of the island, 70 miles inland from the Rembang beachhead.

While the five-day-old struggle

DROWNED: M'Arthur Declares Thousands of Foe Die In Raid

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—General Douglas MacArthur reported to the war department today his belief that thousands of Japanese soldiers were drowned in the surprise raid of his little air force on Subic bay north of the Batan peninsula fighting front in the Philippines.

Three large vessels which were sunk were identified later, a war department communique said, as transports loaded with enemy troops. Those killed met death by drowning or as a result of explosion of ammunition aboard, the communique said.

Meeting no aerial opposition for the first time since the Pacific war started, none of the American planes was damaged.

The communique reported also a raid by a single enemy plane on Hawaii which dropped several bombs near Honolulu without causing damage.

The plane is believed to have come from a Japanese vessel west of Hawaii.

Bombs Fail To Cause Damage At Honolulu

HONOLULU—(AP)—Four aerial bombs, the first to fall on the Hawaiian Islands since the Japanese sneak attack of last Dec. 7, struck the outskirts of Honolulu early yesterday without causing casualties or damage, the army announced.

The heavy explosions awakened Honoluluans about 2:15 a..

"What was believed to be an enemy plane," the army announcement said, "flew over Oahu Island early today (Wednesday) and dropped medium sized bombs on the outskirts of Honolulu. The plane was flying at a high altitude. Where it came from is not known. There were no casualties and no damage except a few broken windows."

It was believed possible the plane was from a cruiser or other enemy vessel at sea.

REVERSES: Reds Slay 36,000 Nazis, Isolate 24,000 Others

(By Associated Press)

Soviet front-line dispatches reported a series of grim and bloody reverses for Adolf Hitler's battered armies today, declaring that the Russians had killed 36,000 Nazis in the 18-day-old battle of Staraya Russa and were now "destroying the remnants" of the trapped invaders.

Nazi prisoners captured in the Staraya Russa sector, where the 16th German army of 96,000 troops has been encircled, were quoted as saying they had gone without food for six days.

A force of 24,000 Germans was likewise declared in Stockholm dispatches to have been isolated by Red army attacks against Orel, a Nazi-held railroad center 200 miles below Moscow, but a Russian demand for surrender was rejected by the garrison commander, Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, Adolf Hitler's best known tank specialist.

In both the Orel and Staraya Russa areas the invaders were said to have been cut off from all reinforcements and supplies save those ferried in by transport planes and Russian ground gunners and pilots alike claimed a mounting toll of these.

Reserve planes from Yugoslavia and Denmark were said to have been sped to the Staraya Russa front. London accounts said 200 had been destroyed over that area in one three-day period.

The Russian government announced Red army troops strik-

NAVY REPORTS 15 ENLISTMENTS

3 From Mansfield, 12 From City's Area Announced By Recruiters Here.

The Navy recruiting station in the postoffice yesterday reported 15 enlistments from this area, three of them from Mansfield.

Those enlisting were Archie S. Stevens, Richard F. Taylor and Harry G. Lucas of Mansfield; Fred P. Lybarger, Ardus E. Roberts, James A. Onie, Harold B. Garner, Cletus C. Young and Mack E. Post, Shelby; Melvin B. Piper, Ashland; Donald E. Vallance, Hayesville; Charles W. Lease and Franklin de Fluiter, Galion; William Fleiner, Crestline and Charles R Selby, Mt. Vernon.

Under a recent ruling received here by recruiting officials, men registered for selective service may enlist in the Navy up to the time of induction into the Army. However, men wishing to enlist in the Navy are being urged to make application well in advance of the date set for induction.

The Navy department, co-operating with high schools and their pupils, has authorized enlistment of men between 17 and 20 in the Naval Reserve with the provision that they may request inactive duty until they complete their current school year.

What do I do?

"ABOUT RIGHT" ISN'T RIGHT where your tires are concerned

Remember the old days when you'd press a tire or kick it to judge if it was "hard enough"? Using guesswork instead of a gauge probably cost you many a mile of service. For as little as 3 lbs. under-inflation will waste up to 3,500 miles of a tire's maximum life! Today your service station will check your tires and keep them at exactly correct air pressure. Have it done every week and your tires will last thousands of miles longer.

Irishman And Scotsman Both Missed In Pennsylvania Duel

(By United Press)

NORTHUMBERLAND, Pa. — One hundred and thirty six years ago today two enemies who died friends squared off in the last duel ever fought in Pennsylvania.

The morning dawned gray on that day in 1805, and the atmosphere was tense when fiery John Binns of Northumberland, and Samuel Stewart of nearby Williamsport, Pa., paced off with pistols cocked.

Binns was a fighting Irishman who once was arrested in England for making a soap-box speech against the Crown. After several later arrests, Binns vowed to leave England. He emigrated to Baltimore, moved on into Pennsylvania and settled in Northumberland.

He always wanted to write, and it wasn't long before he began contributing letters to the Northumberland Gazette. His first literary effort evoked so much comment that Binns decided his destiny was sealed. He arranged to print his own newspaper and became the founder of the Republican Argus, one of the widest read papers of the day.

Soon after he became a publisher Sam Stewart appeared on the scene. Stewart was an equally fiery gentleman from the county of Lycoming. He took issue one day with something Binns had written and the groundwork for the commonwealth's final duel was laid.

On November 2 1805 while Binns was in a public ball alley in Sunbury Stewart approached. After determining that Binns actually was the publisher of the Argus he promptly tossed a neat left cross at the prominent editor. The surprised Binns struck his adversary on the shin with a yellow pine bat and when the tussle ended Binns retired to the local hotel lobby and wrote this note to Stewart.

"After threatening me like a bravo you have attacked me like a ruffian. Some satisfaction ought to be rendered for such conduct. If you have the soul and courage to meet me as a gentleman you will appoint time and place and meet me with pistols accompanied by a friend what has passed shall be [illegible] Binns."

Stewart accepted. The desired seconds were chosen, the time and place were set, and all that was left to be done was load the guns.

The duel began "behind Lawshe's house opposite Derrstown" with the noble verbal gesture that "if either of the parties shall leave his ground before the affair is finally settled, such party shall be regarded as disgraced."

The pistols discharged simultaneously so that only one shot was heard. Neither duelist was struck. Then as the men prepared for a second attempt, one of the seconds nervously suggested that the affair could be "amicably and honorably adjusted."

Thereupon, apologies went the rounds. Everyone shook hands with everyone else, scowls turned to smiles and all four—principals and seconds—repaired to a nearby tavern for a spot of breakfast.

JAVA DEFENSES CRUMBLE; FOE OVERRUNS ISLE

Japs Capture Six Key Towns, Bomb Last United Nations Reinforcement Port.

for Java appeared to be reaching its tragic final stages, equally dark news came from the Burma front as Japanese assault troops stormed across the lower Sittang river and seized a key rail town only 60 miles from Rangoon.

The Sittang river, stubbornly defended by British imperials for the past eight days, was the last natural barrier on the road to the Burmese capital.

With Java seemingly doomed, Australia took new alarm over the prospect of an imminent Japanese invasion of that huge but thinly-populated commonwealth.

The Australian government gravely weighed the possibility that yesterday's raid on the north coast port of Darwin by Japanese fighter planes was a "feeler" attack preliminary to direct invasion.

A correspondent of the Sydney Daily Telegraph gave Java "two weeks of life at most"—this was before today's reports of wholesale new Japanese gains in the Dutch East Indies stronghold—and predicted an early attack on Australia's east coast, probably in North Queensland.

Japanese airmen caused some fresh damage in Port Moresby, New Guinea, in two small raids, an Australian communique said.

The Netherlands government-in-exile in London approved a mass transfer of commercial offices and assets from Java to Caribbean possessions under the wing of the United States in a variation of the scorched earth policy applied to strip the prospect of profit from three Japanese spearheads battling Allied defenders of the island.

Savage Fight Rages Along Burma Front

MANDALAY —(INS)— Savage fighting was reported today between British rear guard forces and a strong Japanese vanguard near Waw, about 70 miles northeast of Rangoon on the Burma front.

Latest advices said the Japanese threat to Rangoon is regarded as extremely grave.

The Japanese have been pouring mechanized and other forces through the Pegu area, where they have established a new bridgehead.

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, who recently returned to his former post as commander-in-chief for India and who is directing British operations in Burma, was understood to have appealed for strong reinforcements.

But it was considered unlikely that anything but colossal reinforcements would be able to stem the Japanese advance or influence the course of the present Burma battle.

Loss of the Sittang river, the last natural barrier defending Rangoon, by the British, plus gradually increasing Japanese air strength over the Burmese front were revealed as big factors in the present Japanese advance.

The British were reported using every possible bomber and fighter plane to harry the Japanese advance and to bomb the enemy rear lines, but many more planes than the British have on hand are needed for this task, authoritative quarters said.

Japs Report Raid On Island

The Japanese radio said today that 30 United Nations planes raided Japanese-held Marcus island (Minami Tori) about 1,100 miles southeast of Japan and midway between Tokyo and the Marshall islands, which the American navy raided several weeks ago.

Broadcasts recorded by United Press in New York and London admitted some damage, but quoted the Domei (Japanese) news agency that "some Allied planes" were shot down. Eight persons were said to have been killed and one building burned.

The Berlin radio's version said 30 enemy aircraft were sighted off the Ogasawara (Bonin) islands, about 600 miles south of Japan, where a Japanese naval base is located. It said slight damage was caused on Minami Tori, which it described as one of the Ogasawaras. Minami Tori, or Marcus island, lies about 750 miles east of the Ogasawara group.

Army and navy circles in Washington declined to comment.

Promises Java Will Fight To Last Man

SYDNEY, Australia— (INS) — Netherlands East Indies Economic Minister Van Hoog Straten arrived in Sydney from Bandoeng today and promised that Java will fight "to the last man and woman."

"There is a possibility Java can be held," he said.

"We are fighting alone and will try to prove to the world what courage and stubbornness can accomplish.

"Whoever gives up Java, it won't be the Netherlands East Indies government. We will fight to the last man and woman."

Chiang Returns To China Capital

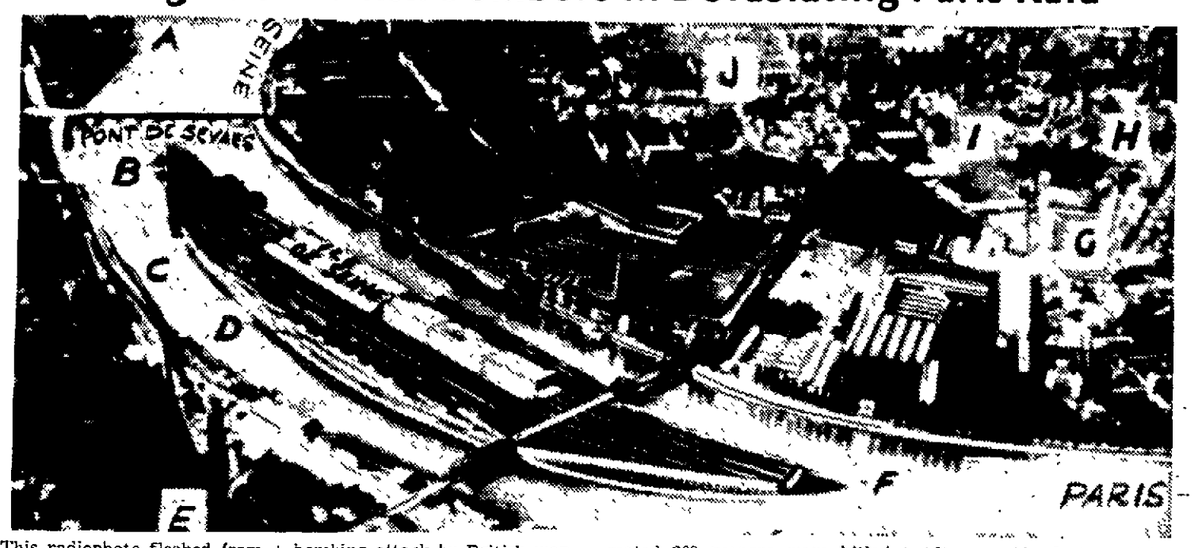
CHUNGKING — (INS) — Accompanied by his wife and a group of aides, Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek arrived in Chungking today after an extended visit to India.

The Generalissimo was flown to Chungking from Kumming aboard an American-built plane, piloted by an American named Engels.

A distinguished group greeted him at the air field, including aged President Lin-Sen, War Minister Hoying-Chin and General Hsing Shi-Hui, former governor Klangsi Province.

Chiang's trip to India, made for the purpose of coordinating Indian-Chinese war measures, was his first trip abroad since his visit to Japan in 1927.

Targets of British Bombers In Devastating Paris Raid



This radiophoto flashed from London shows the sprawling factories of the Renault Motor works on the outskirts of Paris which underwent a devastating bombing attack by British warplanes. London claimed that the Nazis were using the plant's facilities for the manufacture of airplane engines. An estimated 600 persons were killed during the bombardment. The units of the auto factory are (a) packing department, (b) power station, (c) body plant, (d) assembly factory, (e) tire plant, (f) Diesel engine factory, (g) repair department, (h) airplane engine plant, (i) executive offices, (j) test laboratories.

ing toward Smolensk, with a base already established only 50 miles east of that central front city, had broken into a Nazi defense zone and wiped out two regimental headquarters of the 17th German infantry division.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged a series of fierce tank-led Soviet attacks in the Donets basin, in the Ukraine, and elsewhere along the 1,200-mile front.

The Nazi command said all the attacks had been repulsed.

On the North African front, the two-week lull in land fighting still prevailed except for minor patrol clashes, with the British holding Field Marshal Ernest Rommel's Axis forces at bay 40 miles west of Tobruk.

A revitalization of the British army was under way. The army council ordered a rigid examination of the qualifications of all officers 45 years old or more up to the rank of lieutenant colonel to eliminate or reassign the inept and unfit.

The Royal Air Force will undergo a similar purge, a reliable source said, and both the ground and air establishments will aim at "promoting younger men of proved ability to higher ranks, despite seniority."

The army action came less than 10 days after Sir James Grigg supplanted Capt. H. D. R. Margesson as war secretary in a Churchill government shakeup.

Reports Lull On Libya Desert Front

CAIRO—(AP)—The British high command said today that there had been only minor patrol activity along the Libyan desert front.

The war report announced that a column of Free French troops was operating southeast of El Mechili, and said that i a clash of light forces Monday British advance patrols drove back two Axis infantry companies supported by 12 tanks.

GROUP FAVORS TAX ON SALES

House Committee Eyes Substitute For Administration Tax Plan.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Chairman Robert L. Doughton, D., N. C., of the house ways and means committee today said "we certainly could use the money" that a general retail sales tax would yield.

Sentiment of the administration's new $7,600,000,000 tax program has not crystallized in the committee yet, but popularity among members for a sales tax to supplement or substitute for some of the administration's proposals seemed to be holding its own.

Next week the committee will begin hearing the tax views of administration fiscal officials and then will call spokesmen for industry, labor and agriculture.

INCREASE FORCE

Three Puppies Join Police Squad In Ohio Village.

CLEVELAND —(AP)—Westlake village's five-member police force was raised to eight today with the addition of "Victory," "Defense," and "Liberty," in the interest of civilian defense.

The new members are three months old pedigreed German Shepherd puppies. They will be trained to aid Chief George Jackson and two patrolmen in guard duty "for the duration" and afterward.

mediately upon passing the army type test.

Neese said, however, that all men tentatively placed in Class 1-A and 1-B who have no defects which would make them unfit for either full or limited military service would be required to take the army examination.

Neese also warned registrants to read carefully all instructions received from their draft boards in order to eliminate "the great confusion" that has developed in regard to the new examination system.

"In reality all the new system amounts to is that registrants will be inducted as soon as they have passed their army examinations," he said. "They still will be given a preliminary screening test by local board physicians and will have the usual 10 days in which to appeal their classifications."

AEF Soldiers Play Football to Get Rid of 'Sea Legs.'

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN NORTHERN IRELAND —(AP)— The newly-arrived United States troops, reinforcing the AEF already in Northern Ireland, got rid of their sea legs today by hiking, playing football and exercising.

While they were working themselves back into condition after their long sea voyage, Major Gen. Russell P. Hartle, U. S. commander in Northern Ireland, conferred on plans for his troops' continued training and the defense of this war zone.

RAF planes droning overhead brought the realization of how close they now are to the war.

The new contingent includes men from states on the Pacific coast on through to the middle west, men whose forebears came from almost every country in Europe.

PIONEER MARKS 98TH BIRTHDAY

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(UP)—Utah's sole surviving "original pioneer," Mrs. Mary Ann Park Brockbank, has celebrated her 98th birthday, and said she was looking forward confidently to observing the century mark.

Mrs. Brockbank was born in Canada in 1843, and at the age of 4 crossed the plains with her parents in Brigham Young's original company. She was present when the Mormon prophet led his weary emigrants to the mouth of the canyon overlooking the Utah basin and proclaimed that "This is the place."

All of her life since that date—July 24, 1847—has been spent in Utah.

was blown into the mechanism of the meters, and that the cold temperatures had caused them to freeze

The meters are being turned back to the original position, parallel to the street. Boals believes that this will prevent them from being hit by the full force of the wind and that they will no longer freeze

The change was made at the recommendation of a salesman from the Michael Art Bronze company, who was in the city last week. He told city officials that the meters operated more efficiently in the parallel position.

Boals also said that the loss of the police department's three-wheel motorcycle, used by policemen to check meter violations, had contributed in the severe drop in the number of traffic tickets issued.

With two new patrolmen being trained for traffic duty and with the arrival of a new motorcycle expected soon, Boals expects to be able to launch a new traffic violation and parking violation drive.

er war. He recalled that his right leg was broken in that war.

Later, he was with the United States army in Panama and Alaska, doing coastal duty in peacetime. He was stationed for a short time near Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, before returning to the mainland of America.

He's only three-fourths Indian, Kerschoga explained. His mother was part Spanish, but he hates the Spanish, he said, because they killed his father who was a soldier in Mexico. His grandfather, a full-blooded Sioux, is still living in Tampico, Mexico, "or was last July, anyway," he said.

Asked how old his grandfather is, he replied: "Your guess is as good as his or mine. He never kept any record of it."

The talkative prisoner speaks good English. He was adopted by a prominent Kentucky family when he was a boy and attended Indian school in Washington for eight months, he explained.

Life has been pretty rough for him in recent years and he's spent much of his time traveling around the country, getting a living wherever he could. It was a "tough break" that brought him to jail here, he said.

"But," he added, "the railroad detective was good to me and got me off with a small fine." The old adventurer, however, didn't have the $5 to pay it. The fine and court costs added up to nine days in jail.

Right, a small pontoon bridge for infantry crossing is destroyed by a well-placed shell.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

lettering of memorial stones and cemetery monuments.

Stahl operated the company along with his father-in-law, H. C. O'Brien. He was born in Weisburg, Ind., on April 26, 1910 and lived in Mansfield for the past four years.

He was the son of Rev. and Mrs. E. F. C. Stahl of Newark. Rev. Stahl was former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Mansfield.

He was a graduate of Wittenberg college and a member of Phi Mu Delta social fraternity. He married Lucille O'Brien in 1935 and they lived near Wabash, Ind., until they moved here in 1938.

An active member of St. Paul's Lutheran church, he was a member of the church council, assistant superintendent and teacher in the Sunday school and together with Mrs. Stahl was a counsellor to the Luther league. He served as secretary of the Optimist club at the time of his death.

Survivors besides his widow and parents are three sisters, Mrs. John Schlegel and Romilda Stahl of Indianapolis, Ind., and Ruth Stahl of Cleveland.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where funeral services will be held Saturday at 3:30 p. m. with Rev. Herman L. Gilbert officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

GIRL, 6, FOUND IN COLD SHACK

Authorities Discover Body of Mother Frozen Nearby.

MARIETTA—(AP)—For a night and a day a six-year-old girl shivered in an unheated hillside shack while her mother lay dead in the snow outside.

Sheriff's Deputy Charles Ross today tentatively identified the mother as Mrs. Florence Dailey Williams, about 27, a divorcee from Tuscarawas county. Coroner R. W. Riggs said she apparently died of a heart ailment.

The child, who said her name was Patty, was given medical treatment and food here. Her plight was discovered yesterday when a farmer found the mother's frozen body.

SETTLE POINT ON STAMP TITLE

LONDON —(U.P.)— Wilfred Stamp became the second Lord Stamp for just a second when he and his parents, Lord and Lady Stamp were killed by a bomb in their Kent home in April.

This was the effect of a decision reached by the house of lords.

Wilfred Stamp, left a window and three daughters, but no son. The title therefore passes to his brother, Dr. Trevor Stamp.

The lords decided, subject to the king's approval, to summon Dr. Stamp to the house, as the third baron. This will allow Mrs. Wilfred Stamp and her daughters to be recognized as holding the title which would be proper if Wilfred Stamp succeeded to the peerage momentarily.

ferences and approaching the problem without personal feeling and prejudices."

Approximately 100 Butler residents, about half of them women, crowded the courtroom during the hearing and remained long after the trial ended to discuss the case in small groups about the room.

Morgan and Roberts contended throughout the trial that the three men named in the charges pulled them from the cab of a light truck near the school after beating them. One of the assailants swung a hammer at the two board members as they sat in the truck, testimony brought out. Raymond Stevens admitted that he had the hammer which was taken from the truck driven by Roberts.

"I'm glad it ended this way and the names of my brother (Archie Stevens) and Tugend were cleared," the younger Stevens said after the $50 fine was imposed.

Court costs, which had not been determined today, were assessed against the three defendants. Raymond Stevens arranged to pay the fine. Attorney George Blecker represented the defendants at the hearing. The law firm of Beam and Beam was counsel for the board members.

The school strike which precipitated the altercation in Butler was in protest to the temporary suspension of Supt. Willard S. Weekley of the Butler schools on "misconduct" charges. Weekley later was reinstated by the school board.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1942.

Money isn't everything—as long as you still have some.

Not much is expected of March—so an occasional pleasant day is all the more appreciated.

This isn't exactly the "World of Tomorrow" that visitors at the New York fair were led to expect.

There's already some talk about what's to be done with Hitler after the war—but there are several more important things to be taken care of in the meantime.

Morgenthau's Double-Purpose Taxes

A DOUBLE PURPOSE is admitted in the tax increases which Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recommends to congress for inclusion in the 1942 taxation measure now under consideration.

One is to raise more money by taxation to help meet the costs of war, and the other is to withdraw the greatest possible volume of purchasing power from workers at a time when "money incomes are high and the quantity of goods for civilian use is shrinking day by day . . ."

The second purpose is clearly designed to head off dangerous inflation, if possible, but just why this inflationary trend has been encouraged thus far by failure to set reasonable limits on prices of farm products and refusal to establish maximum wages is not generally understood.

While there is still another week to file a report and make first payment on 1941 income taxes—which are from three to four times as much as those of the preceding year, on the basis of approximately the same income—it is announced that Secretary Morgenthau sees need for practically doubling taxes on incomes under $10.000, and that he also advises a "withholding levy," of possibly 10 per cent, to be deducted by employers.

The proposed higher taxes intended to meet war costs become rather confusing when mixed with the idea of "withdrawing the largest possible volume of purchasing power," and also hooking up with a plan to expand the operation of social security.

That notion of taxing in order to "withdraw the largest possible volume of purchasing power" savors of a suggestion that people cannot be safely trusted with money they earn and that all of it, except enough to provide bare necessities, had best be taken over by the government for safe keeping.

Wartime Restrictions Unavoidable

PECULIAR situations arise out of war conditions and it is not surprising that the American Civil Liberties union, ardent guardian of individual freedom, should now voice protests against restrictive measures adopted by the government to protect the nation from Japanese fifth column activities on the West coast, and to curb subversive action throughout the country.

It cannot be doubted that clearing coastal areas of Japanese will result in hardships to some who are entirely loyal to this country, but the treachery of some of them—as evidenced at Pearl Harbor and elsewhere—justifies suspicion that there are traitors among the Japanese residents of the West coast. The danger is too great just now to quibble about temporarily inconveniencing Japanese citizens or aliens who are uninvited residents of this country.

Except for the long-time ban on further Japanese immigration, peace-time procedure has been to accord these people the same privileges, tolerance and consideration as others, and it is only the emergency of war that now necessitates, and justifies, closer surveillance of individuals and groups whose associations and sympathies link with enemy nations.

Instances of Japanese treatment of Americans, as in the case of James R. Young, International News Service correspondent who told a Mansfield audience of his experiences while detained in prison in Japan, show that, even in peacetime, the Japs were not considerate of "foreigners"—and just why the safety of 130 million Americans should be jeopardized, rather than discommode Japanese residents of the West coast, or other United States territory, is not clear.

If policies and preachments of the American Civil Liberties union were to be followed as national wartime procedure the war could be considered as definitely lost as it would be if the fate of the nation depended on decisions of "conscientious objectors."

Less Need for Free Parking Lot

OPPOSING views of city councilmen, on the subject of renting space for a free parking lot at this time, are quite understandable, as there is at least a strong probability that the immediate future will be marked by a reduction, rather than an increase, in requirement for parking space—in Mansfield and throughout the country.

There had been public understanding that the city planned to secure several conveniently located lots for free parking as soon as possible after parking meters were installed, but this was not done and there is now no apparent urgency for action.

Nor is there need, under present conditions, to go further with the proposal to install additional parking meters until greater assurance can be felt that there will be need for them—as parking meters are intended to serve public convenience and meet costs of traffic policing, not to create a fund for other uses.

Heating Becomes Scientific

FIGURING the cost of heating a home before it is built has always been difficult. The architect could give an approximate estimate, based on cubic content, number of windows and doors, kind of fuel, climate and so on. But until a family had actually gone through three or four winters, and could average the costs, nothing very definite was known. Now the engineering colleges are taking the heating of houses seriously. They are turning out facts instead of guesses.

Insulation makes a great difference in cost of heat. The placing of radiators makes a difference. Storm sash, in cold climates, also helps.

One of the more interesting of the new discoveries is a method called "radiant heat," by which pipes are placed inside walls instead of out in the rooms. The walls themselves radiate warmth. The air is said to be fresher and pleasanter by this method, and all the floor space in the room is made available.

It is evident that small and inexpensive modern homes are to have comforts not dreamed of by builders of the finest mansions twenty years ago.

Young Takes Look at West Coast

—By JAMES R. YOUNG

Editor's Note—This is the first of five articles on "The West Coast Menace," written by James R. Young, who was for thirteen years Far East director of International News Service, with headquarters in Tokyo. Young has just completed a three-weeks investigation from Seattle to San Diego. Any opinions expressed are his own.

(Written Expressly for International News Service)

THE AUTHORITY given Gen. John L. De Witt to clear the Pacific coast of aliens and citizens considered inimical to defense interests will take effect in a few hours.

A presidential order granting the army powers to take charge means swift and needed action to remove in particular the west coast menace, 186,000 aliens including 33,000 Japanese.

Japan's submarine attack off Goleta, Calif., and the discovery by FBI agents of caches of power lamps, ammunition, rockets, flares, wireless sets, knives, swords, flags and military uniforms substantiated the pyramided demand of many organizations that aliens be shifted from the coast.

Just one day before the curfew was inaugurated on alien registration the Japs renewed their long overseas attacks in one of an estimated dozen subs built for 12,000-mile voyages. The reappearance of an undersea eel recalled a statement which I saw in one Jap military book used by their spies in peace time. It declared that "our submarines must be able to operate alone in the western Pacific. Their ability to attack and to make long journeys is vitally important."

The Japanese, in the view of army and navy authorities, have constituted a definite menace on the coast, from Seattle where two railroad stations were virtually in Jap hands, to truck gardeners near aircraft plants in Southern California.

Questions of legal interpretation of constitutional rights of aliens continued several weeks, until public pressure became so strong, and military authorities so indignant, that a smouldering anger broke into a strong and fiery criticism from state legislators, the attorney general of California, Dies committee members, patriotic organizations, and private citizens.

ONE JAP MAP seized by Dies operatives gave plans for an attack on the United States through Alaska and Canada where invasion beachheads would be established.

FBI seizure of about 2,000 aliens, most of them Japs, was a hard hitting stroke to forestall sabotage. The number caught was relatively small. Another 4,000 were questioned. Great quantities of war materials, disguised police officials, members of secret societies and militarists cloaked as Buddhist priests, are partial results of the civilian campaign directed from Washington. The army now takes over.

Rounds-ups to date have revealed what was suspected, that many aliens intentionally ignored the decree to turn in or report firearms, dynamite, short wave radios, cameras, maps, military documents and contraband. The caches uncovered are small compared with what the Japs have disposed of or hidden as part of their intense West Coast intrigue plans.

An estimated 90 per cent of the Japanese are allied with their military organizations. The key group is estimated at 7,200. The men have been trained through propaganda, special instructions under two crack military agents who operated on the coast, and by intimidation of others, the sabotage scheme was implanted.

Dual citizenship and trick passports have been identified with the plot of Tokyo agents in collaboration with the Nazis, and, unfortunately, including some misguided Americans one of whom is now under federal indictment.

THE PERIL of the enemy within was warned in substantiated instances by the Dies committee of un-American activities. The Jap embassy and many consulates in the United States and the Americas used diplomatic immunity to cover their gestapo ferreting. Domei, a heavily financed propaganda news agency, it was shown, operated without registration under the federal law, using camera equipment, large staffs not required of such an agency, two-way radio sets and secret traveling fellows to work in hand with well distributed Jap military agents, some of whom posed as students in Washington and California.

Three western states were hothouses breeding Japanese espionage. Most natives of Nippon are loyal to the house of Hirohito. American experts on Japan rate the seacoast fishermen groups as a bad element. They fished for more than fish. They were ready for sabotage at given signals, especially if there was to be a lull in Japan's south Pacific campaign.

Inland valley merchants and farmers are for the most considered a good class of citizen who appreciated the United States. Nevertheless there has been held over them, by planted agents from Japan, demands for their imperial allegiance which has been drilled even into the second generation groups through some 300 schools with an enrollment of 19,000 students, and in seven vernacular language newspapers.

Many Japanese born in the United States are loyal to this country. From birth however, they are never free from domination, instruction, persecution, intimidation and threats of the Tokyo government.

Instead of a British court-martial the soldiers were turned over to local authorities for trial on charges of murder. Defended by patriots John Adams and Josiah Quincy all were acquitted.

Timely Editorial

A Success Story.

The most popular American success story is that of the poor boy who wins fame and fortune by his own ingenuity directed along the lines of the Horatio Alger plot. However, this is a country where the rich young lad also has a chance to make a name for himself by his own zeal and ability. Brigadier General Cornelius Vanderbilt, who is dead at 68, chose a career which made an achievement story of the second type.

As a young man he spurned the family millions. He decided to make his own way and did so as an inventor, engineer, financier and soldier. In World war I he enlisted in the New York national guard and served in France under fire as an officer of engineers and won decorations for distinguished service.

General Cornelius Vanderbilt made good. His career is an inspiration to any youth, rich or poor.—Toledo Blade.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"To Pay on the Nail."

It is to pay cash on the spot; but where does "nail" come into the picture?

The answer is still a philological puzzle, no theory being convincing.

The probability is that the illusion is not so much a matter of etymology as of an old custom.

In English exchanges long ago, at stated periods, statements of transactions between members, showing amounts due, one to another, would be hung on a nail.

If settlement was made as the account went on the nail—cash paid instanter—the debt would be said to be paid on the nail.

We believe this is how it started.

Truman Committee to Ask Some Pointed Questions About Rubber

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Some pointed questions regarding rubber supplies to the big tire and rubber companies have been prepared by the Truman committee to be fired at Jesse Jones and Leon Henderson this week.

Among other things the committee will ask whether it is true (1) that Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and U. S. Rubber were permitted to draw 26 per cent more rubber than normally during the past year; (2) whether Montgomery Ward stocked up with $60,000,000 worth of tires; (3) whether big trucking firms have stocked up with three years supply of tires. (It was, of course, the privilege of any individual or corporation to stock up with strong reserves prior to Pearl Harbor and the rationing of rubber, but the committee is interested in locating the big sources of supply for the war effort.)

The Truman committee received information from the tariff commission regarding the above questions and asked Leon Henderson and Jesse Jones about them in a closed door session. The two defense moguls did not seem to know the answers. Jesse Jones passed the buck on to Henderson, who, he said, was in charge of consumer matters.

Question of Storage.

WHEN the Truman committee asked Henderson whether the Big Four rubber companies had been permitted to draw a much greater supply of rubber than usual through the Rubber Reserve corporation in 1941, he replied that the "question of storage is involved." In other words, we rushed into this country 400,000 extra tons of rubber last year and it had to be stored some place. However, Henderson did not make it clear whether the Big Four, by storing the rubber, could keep it permanently.

Note: In addition to drawing 26 per cent more rubber last year, the Big Four also got 90,000 tons of rubber out of the 145,000 tons imported since Pearl Harbor. The Truman committee wants to ascertain whether this went strictly for war orders.

If Japs Take Ceylon.

WHEN Leon Henderson and Bill Batt of the War Production board came before the Truman committee recently they gave estimates of all the rubber they expected to scrape together from different parts of the world until such time as Jesse Jones' slow-moving synthetic rubber program could swing into action.

Included in these estimates were 100,000 tons of rubber from Ceylon.

"What!" exclaimed Senator Brewster of Maine who has been the chief senatorial crusader on the rubber shortage. "Do you still carry that on your books? Haven't you read the morning papers?"

Boiling down all the rubber testimony, the Truman committee found that if the Japanese take Ceylon, as they are expected to do, the U. S. A. will be 500,000 tons of rubber short in 1943 for military purposes. And this does not allow a single ton of rubber for civilian use. It does not even allow rubber for tires of defense workers, some of whom will be living in new defense housing projects built ten miles from factories "because the air is better."

Synthetic Estimates.

ALSO the Truman committee finds there is grave doubt regarding the accuracy of Jesse Jones' estimates on synthetic rubber. Real fact is that Jesse has given three different sets of figures. At first he grandiloquently announced he would have 400,000 tons of rubber "production" by June 1943.

Then appearing privately before the Truman committee, he was much more modest and merely promised 400,000 tons by December, 1943—six months later. Then a few days afterward, he reduced his estimate once again, telling the house appropriations committee he would have 500,000 tons of "productive capacity" by Jan. 1, 1944.

"Productive capacity" is a lot different from "production." Productive capacity, merely means that the machines are ready to start operating. Thus we face a gap during the year 1943 with virtually no rubber added to the stockpile except what we can get from the wild rubber forests of Brazil. This may be all right for the civilian population which already is forming "Jesse Jones Walking Clubs," but for the war machine it is another story.

What Doctor Ordered.

THE other day Harry Hopkins had a visitor in the person of Aubrey Williams, head of the National Youth Administration, who has been one of his closest friends for many years.

"Harry," said Williams, looking around the room in the Naval hospital, "how many bottles of medicine have you got there?"

"About eighteen," replied the lend-lease administrator.

"About eighteen too many," commented the National Youth Administrator. "And how many doctors have you got?"

Hopkins told him.

"Well, Harry what's the use of your fooling around with all these doctors and all this medicine," said his friend. "You know that the more doctors you have the more this whole thing gets on your nerves. Now there's only one doctor who really knew what ailed you, and that's Andy Rivers out at Mayo's in Rochester. Why don't you have Dr. Rivers come east and get you fixed up?"

Harry Hopkins acted on his old friend's advice, sent for Dr. Rivers, and now is out of the hospital.

He says he has forgotten about medicine and doctors, and feels better than he has in months. Furthermore, Dr. Rivers has told him that without any question he can recover entirely.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—As the door of the jug clanked behind Birdie a matron placed her hand upon her shoulder and said, "Don't worry, dearie. You're young. What do you know about life anyway?"

"Yes'm," said Birdie, but inwardly she must have laughed. What did she know about life?

Just this:

At 18 Birdie was the mother of a two-year-old son, separated from her husband, slinging hash in a dockside restaurant. She earned $5 a week and tips.

One day a truck driver came in for some pie. They became confidential. "My name's Birdie," she told him. "What's yours?"

"Joe."

"I used to know a man named Joe. He's a rat. I married him."

Joe looked at her closely and liked what he saw. "I'll be waitin' for you when you get off tonight," he said.

LATER, as Birdie explained it, to the judge, she and Joe saw a lot of each other. They went everywhere together and she was crazy about him. One day he piled her into his car and started for Philly, just to have a little fun, but on the way there a truck ran out of a side street and when they cleared all the wreckage away Joe was very dead.

Birdie got her old job back at the restaurant and was there just six weeks when another truck driver, named Larry, dropped in for some coffee. They chatted informally. Later, when it was time for her to go home he was waiting for her in his car. They took a long ride in the country. The next night they went to a movie. After that they went "steady."

One day he said, "Kid, we could lose ourselves in this town. Lemme take you outa that greasy joint you're in. Okay?"

So Birdie left the baby with her mother; she and Larry changed their names and went to live in a room not far from Lincoln Tunnel.

It was a lot of fun for the first ten days. Larry didn't work much at his truck driving job but then he seemed to have plenty of money.

Birdie asked him about it one day. "You make more dough than any driver I ever saw. How do you do it?"

"That's for me to worry about, Baby. Be ready when I come home tonight. I'll have a new car, and we'll have some fun."

But Larry never came back. He turned into a one-way street against traffic, and at the police station, where the cop took him, they doubted that his name was really Larry. You look like a guy named Blackie who's wanted for a series of drugstore holdups."

LATER, when Larry didn't come back. Birdie went to a neighborhood bar and got higher than a monkey. She picked up a couple of new acquaintances and took them back home with her. They were still there, drowning their sorrow, when the cops arrived to go through Larry's things. Among them they found two guns and a stack of $5 and $10 bills that would choke a calf.

That's why Larry is being held without bail. That's why Birdie was sent to the jug, where a motherly matron placed her hand upon her shoulder and said, "Don't worry, dearie. You're young. What do you know about life anyway?"

A Farmer's Diary

Wild Visitors

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MINE is not a model farm—I am not a model farmer. Most all of my neighbors are better at it than I. I cannot even do as well as I know how—being limited by lack of help, and by too many outside interests—but nobody enjoys his farming any more than I do.

I walked about the cornfield a while today, after a skiff of new snow had fallen during the night. Most of the hybrid stalks still stand erect, except in the swampy places. A part of the corn is still there, clinging, the yellow ends exposing themselves from the tattered husks. Our boys make it a chore to haul in several wheelbarrow loads after school each evening. By keeping a reserve pile on hand for times too cold and wet for getting it, our pigs, chickens and cow have fared very well.

Tracks in the skim of snow revealed that wily wild neighbors of fields and woods are fully aware of our ungarnered corn. I saw a piece of cob with a few yellow grains beside a pile of rails near the calamus swamp. The lacy delicate track of a field mouse led away and entered a niche beneath the rails. Farther on, cottontails had played and left the record of their frolic among the lines of corn like music notes along the staff.

The trail of a mother skunk came clearly from the neighbor's pasture, followed by young ones. They scattered to feed and I counted five sets of smaller tracks. Then I saw where one little skunk had met catastrophe. Tracks like those of a slim footed dog—Old Red Fox—had come and gone from the direction of the wooded hilltop. I sniffed but found no scent upon the air. Death had come too suddenly for self defensive measures.

Following up the draw that divides the field and makes excellent game shelter overgrown with shrubs and briers, I saw where quail had passed the night. A neat pile of droppings was at the center of hard packed ground, not yet entirely snow covered. Farther on the little birds flew up from the edge of the grass with thundering wings. A pheasant drummed far down along the woodland pasture.

Near the culvert the waddling track of an opossum—hand-like imprints with the dent of a dragging tail between. And beside a trickling stream that flows under the road, the signature of a raccoon. He had stood at the edge and washed something in the water before he ate it.

No, I could not qualify as a model farmer. I'm raising a family to love the land, and buying a farm to make it our home. My cornfield isn't as neat as my neighbors' are—but I'll wager it has more visitors!

Circulate V For Victory Coins In Occupied France

LONDON—(INS)—German police and military authorities in Occupied France are trying to discover the secret organization responsible for the circulation of thousands of "V" sign coins cut out of two franc pieces.

Any person found with one of these coins in his possession will be executed, the Germans have decreed.

Despite this threat, however, the coin is being used all over Occupied France, especially Paris, as a token binding Free Frenchmen together.

The original two-franc bits are machine-cut and by a cunning simplicity of design, the historic words "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite," are left clearly visible on the coin. On the other side part of the name "Republique Francise" can be seen.

HEAD OF SENATE GROUP FAVORS ARMY PAY RAISE

Sen. Reynolds Urges Immediate Action to Boost Wages of Armed Forces.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A proposal to increase pay of the nation's fighting forces won enthusiastic support today from Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.) of the senate military committee who said he would convene the committee tomorrow to consider it.

"I am for it," he declared, adding that if he obtained committee approval he would ask for immediate consideration of the legislation in the senate.

"If we can afford to finance all the armies of the world," Reynolds said, "I want to give our own boys what they should have."

The legislation was approved yesterday by a sub-committee headed by Senator Johnson (D., Colo.), who introduced the bill. The measure would establish a uniform pay scale for enlisted men, non-commissioned officers and the lowest of the commissioned grades in the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, coast and geodetic survey and public health service.

Instead of entering the army and navy at $21 a month, men would start at $42. At present, an enlisted man serves four months at $21 and then receives $30 a month until his second year. After one year a $10 increase, which would be abolished under the new scale, is provided.

Seven non-commissioned pay categories would be established for all the services with identical rates.

Second lieutenants and ensigns would be paid $1,800 per year instead of $1,500, their rental allawance would be upped from $480 per year to $720 and subsistence allowances from $219 to $504.

Johnson estimated that as of last Jan. 1 the cost of the pay increases would total $255,000,000 a year.

URGES CARE OF BEES IN COUNTY

State, Acting In View of War, Says Inspector Needed To Fight Infection.

Richland county commissioners were urged today by Charles A. Reese, state apiarist, to appoint a county bee inspector and to "exert every effort to prevent and eradicate any contagious diseases of bees which are now present or may be introduced."

Because honey is expected to afford a good substitute for sugar during the war, the War Production board has designated beekeeping as a vital industry and entitled to a priority rating. That will entitle bees to special care during the national emergency.

County commissioners said they had set up $250 to employ a bee inspector for the year and would name one this spring. The county has had an inspector for the past three years.

Infection of Richland county bee colonies with foul brood, a disease which afflicts bees, was 16.7 per cent in 1941, third highest percentage of infection in Ohio, the state apiarist's report shows.

The county had 263 apiaries and 1,260 colonies of bees last year, ranking it among the heavier honey producing areas in Ohio. The inspector found 211 colonies infected with foul brood and ordered 82 quarantines.

EASES SHORTAGE

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Before the Pacific war ends, American tea drinkers may be thanking South American scientists who have discovered how to toast Brazil-matte, famous South American tea, so that it closely resembles Chinese green tea. The United States consumes about 10,000 tons of green tea yearly.

Anxiety over eventual higher prices and shortages of Oriental teas has already caused an increase in importation and consumption of Brazil-matte, according to the Brazilian consulate here.

Buys Complete Automobile To Obtain Car Door

ATLANTA, Ga — (INS) — The Major bought a complete automobile to get one door!

Major Joseph B. Gillespie, motor maintenance officer at Fort Jackson, S. C., couldn't find the right door to fit an army car his crew was working on from the Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster Motor Maintenance District. The specific door needed, the Major observed, was listed in his parts catalogue at $35.

After "shopping around," he finally found a wrecked automobile of the same make and model as the car at his post, and the wrecked car had the door he needed, and several other valuable parts that could be used later. So, he bargained, and obtained the entire car for the allotted price of the door.

CHAPTER XIX

Saturday and Sunday Judith stayed in the apartment. On Monday morning when she awoke she wished she could sleep again, sleep endlessly. The havoc of the past weeks was in her pale face, her mouth drawn, her eyes that would never be quite as young again dull and shadowed beneath. And love survived the sharp visualization of Max, sunburned, meeting Fay's ship and holding her close as he must have many times—survived even the visualization of their being married.

But for her pride she would have written him again that dismal Monday. But pride reared its stubborn head and she managed to stay away from the desk. And what was there to say? It was so clear that she had been a short romantic flight for Max, one among many he had taken, and her final good-bye had released him with more convenience and less annoyance than heretofore he had been released. The good-bye coming from her was what Max wanted:

But he had said, "Doubt everyone and everything, Judith, but never doubt my love." Nice words for a parting or the truth? Would she ever know? The dropping of a hastily-written note in a box had brought the final closing of the curtains and she would go on wondering, debating, thinking of him sometimes as married and at other times as not being married, bitter and angry, hurt and shamed, but still in love with him.

She saw no one for a week. The weekly letter from her mother, usually promptly answered, remained unanswered. Only the anonymous faces on the street saw her walking those windy March afternoons. They saw a slender, exceedingly attractive, dark-haired girl who looked as though she did not know or care where she was going.

One evening she picked up the ringing telephone after debating a few minutes whether to answer it. Phyllis and Ames and Sid Biddison no doubt thought she had gone quietly to South America

"Judith?" asked an excited, masculine voice. "Is this Miss Judith Barth?"

"Yes" The voice was vaguely familiar.

"This is Stephen Larrabee"

"Hello, Stephen."

"Hello. I've been trying to get you. This time I decided not to get lost and let a cop tell me my way back to my hotel. I've been at a convention up here and I thought if—if you were not doing anything, you might have dinner with me."

Her first impulse was to refuse. Then she thought, "But this is escape, like sleeping."

"I'll be very glad to have dinner with you, Stephen. Thank you."

He laughed "I'm willing to be shown some of this town you think is so wonderful. What time?"

"Seven-thirty." That was Max's time.

"Fine See you then."

At 7:20 he was standing outside her apartment door—tall, smiling, young, his cheeks aflame. Somehow he seemed very young indeed, and he was wearing the great brown coat the roughness of which she had felt during their ridiculous embrace on Christmas night in the station at Clinton.

"I'm probably a little early," he said. He looked into her face. It was not Max's swift, penetrating glance that took in all of her. It was just honestly complimentary.

"That's all right. Come in."

Coming in, he said, "You have a nice place here."

"Thank you. I'll get my things."

He smiled. "You'll have to tell me where to go. I'm just a small-town lad, you know."

Not to a place where she and Max had been together. "If only," she thought, "I could turn my head and look back and by some miracle find it was Max beside me."

In the taxi he said, "I called the store first."

"I'm on my vacation now.."

"And you didn't go anywhere?"

"I—I decided not to."

"Decided to take a rest?"

Rest! She nodded because suddenly she was afraid she was going to cry. After she composed herself, she asked, "How is everyone at home?"

"Fine. I thought you'd have been home before this."

"I thought so, too. I've been terribly busy. How is your golf game?"

He chuckled. "No better and no worse. The season will be opening soon. In golf you seem to reach a point where you can't improve your game. I've reached that point."

The night-club where they went was one to which she and Max had never been, but to which out of town people who read advertisements flocked When the waiter lead them to an undesirable table, Stephen did not protest, but accepted it quite cheerfully.

"I've heard of this place," he said

"Of the beautiful show girls?"

He frowned. "I don't go for that. A girl, any girl, doesn't mean a thing to me."

"Ideals?"

He nodded. He was very serious. "I suppose so. I like to look at a pretty girl as I like to look at a good-looking car. But . . . Shall we dance before we order?"

"I don't think there's time. The floor show will be on soon."

Sitting here with Stephen Larrabee and looking at pretty girls kicking up their pretty legs—while her heart was crying for Max! Stephen sat with his arms folded, frowning, looking as though he were interested, but not particularly enjoying the spectacle. Yet, later, he seemed particularly to enjoy his dinner, for he had an excellent appetite and did not seem to notice how little Judith ate. Nor did he notice how stricken she looked when one of the songs played was associated with Max and her, one that had so enclosed them that in a series of crowded places it seemed they were quite alone.

"A nickel for your thoughts," he said.

Judith smiled. "A whole nickel?"

"Are they worth more than that?"

"Stephen, the essence of me is bound up in them . . . If I seem somewhat preoccupied tonight, it hasn't anything to do with you. I'm not accustomed to idle days."

"Why don't you go home and see your family? I'm going back day after tomorrow. We could go back together . . . There's nothing to keep us from dancing now, is there?"

She was dancing with Stephen Larrabee while her heart was crying for Max . . . Dancing with him several times during the long evening in the smoky, crowded room and knowing that an evening which had been escape for her was important to him—because she was with him. She thought, "You mustn't care for me. It hurts too much. I could tell you how much it hurts."

It was she who reminded Stephen of the late hour.

"Don't you have to be in form for your meeting tomorrow?" Like a wife talking, she thought.

"I don't require much sleep. Six hours and I'm ready for the toughest meeting."

She had not been bored. It was pleasant to look at Stephen, at his healthy bigness and into the clear young eyes that had not yet learned to mask their feeling. It was pleasant to dance with him and to feel for a short while that awful sense of drifting leaving her in his strong, protective embrace. Several times she thought, I shouldn't be with him. He's as ripe for hurting as I was. Big as he is, strong as he is, ambitious as he is, he's as ripe for hurting as I was.

The next evening she had dinner with him again partly to escape from herself and partly because there was no gracious, tactful way of refusing the friend and superior of Larry, Harriet's husband.

In quieter surroundings than the evening before he told her about his job.

"I may not have a job soon," he said to Judith's listening gray eyes. "You've probably heard of Mr. Forbes. He's my boss and Larry's and he's one of those middle-aged men who resents the younger, better-educated man on his way up."

"Does he resent Larry?"

"No."

"He doesn't resent Larry because Larry isn't on his way up. Isn't that it? Larry just goes along—plodding."

"Forbes resents me and I don't know what I'm going to do about it. Clinton is a branch office and Forbes can make the home office in Baltimore think I'm no good if he wants to. I could, if I wanted to stoop that low, make Forbes lose his job if I talked about the mismanagement of the Clinton office. But Forbes has a swell wife and two daughters who are reaching the expensive age. If anybody steps out, I've got to" Though he smiled, she knew that he was worried. "Of course there's always the WPA."

Why did she bother? What did she care what happened to Stephen Larrabee?

He said, "I've never worked for any other company."

"You're not afraid, are you?"

He looked startled for an instant. Then his chin lifted. "No, I'm not afraid. But I want to get somewhere. I'm not satisfied to stand still."

"You want things—"

"Yes, the best." He smiled. "Quality before quantity and the only way to do anything is the right way and usually there's only one right way. I've never had very much. There were a lot of us and my parents worked hard to bring us up. My Dad never took a vacation and my mother never had a servant. They kid me about always wanting the best. You—" he looked at her steadily. "Oh, nothing. Let's skip it. You'd probably laugh."

Could she laugh at anything?

It was not until they were standing outside her apartment door that he said, "I'm going home tomorrow, you know. You should."

"Am I being reproached?"

"No! But they."

She nodded. "You think I'm selfish keeping to myself on my vacation." She thought, "I'm drifting and it doesn't matter much if I drift to Clinton along with Stephen. I want to see them but I don't want them to know. I don't want them to be worried about me"

"You probably think it is none of my business."

"I wasn't thinking that at all. I'll let you know in the morning."

"You're going home."

It was the most positive thing he had ever said to her.

TICKET TRAINS

BURLINGTON, N. J. —(U.P.)— Motorcycle police soon may be detailed to give summonses to railroad engineers who speed their "iron horses" down this city's main street.

Councilman Neal Hancock said the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania railroad agreed to operate its trains at a speed not exceeding 5 miles an hour over a mile stretch of track which crosses seven intersections. However, Police Sergeant Clarence Bennett reported that trains have been clocked going through the town at 25 miles an hour.

Red Cross Concerned Over Shortages of Nurses In U. S.

(By International News Service)

BOSTON—There is a growing shortage of nurses in the United States, according to Red Cross authorities.

"What are we going to do when an epidemic comes?" Miss Betty Dumaine, Boston Metropolitan Red Cross vice chairman of volunteer service asked.

It is estimated the shortage as of October requirements is 10,000. This will increase during the winter months when the army in New England alone will require an additional 500 nurses for its expansion.

"We've heard what's happened in Europe where, because there were so few trained nurses, soldiers and civilians are dying by the thousands. Typhus and typhoid are raging in Greece and because the women and girls don't know the first thing about nursing the epidemic can't be checked," Miss Dumaine said.

Five reasons for the nursing shortage in Boston are:

1. Influx of 60,000 soldiers with relatives and friends coming to visit them. Sudden illness and accidents hit a portion of these visitors.

2. Husbands are earning more money in defense work eliminating the necessity of married nurses working.

3. More nurses are employed on floor duty than formerly when student nurses received a greater percentage of patient care.

4. A greater number of patients demand special nurses who work eight hours instead of 12 hours a day.

5. Nurses are doing more and more patient treatments because doctors have more work heaped upon them as the army takes physicians.

Miss Dumaine suggested that girls who cannot spare three years of training required of nurses should volunteer for the Red Cross nurses aids course if they wish to aid their country.

"These 'pink ladies' are needed desperately in hospitals now to do the little things like making beds and giving baths," Miss Dumaine said.

TOTE GUNS

SANTA FE, N. M. —(U.P.)— Thirty-five former sheriffs and policemen and three women have been accepted by Police Chief Tom Sumners as emergency deputies.

"You're danged right they can tote six-shooters," he said of the female deputies, "and there's nothing I'm more afraid of than a woman with a gun."

Among the former sheriffs is Billy Simpson, sheriff of Luna county at the time of Pancho Villa's raids on Columbia.

SECOND MILLION EASY

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—(U.P.)—The Klamath Indian tribe gave the county a good start toward its second million dollars worth of defense bonds by voting $150,000 for the cause.

QUOTA FOR RED CROSS COMPLETED, PACKED

University Women Sew and Knit 100 Toddlers' Packs In Four Months; Now Packing Sets for Distribution.

HAVING completed their four months' quota of sewing and knitting for the Red Cross, members of the American Association of University Women were busy Wednesday packing the articles which will be sent to the Red Cross warehouses in Hoboken, N. J., and from there to places where they are most needed.

One hundred toddlers' packs, consisting of 2,000 pieces, were prepared by A. A. U. W. members and individuals in other organizations between October and March.. Each pack contains two shirts, two sleepers, two rompers, 10 diapers, one snow suit and one knit set consisting of sweater, cap and mittens.

Mrs. Harold D. Burns, as A. A. U. W. chairman for the Red Cross project, had charge of cutting and distributing materials and receiving the finished articles. Mrs. Charles Kuntz, president of the University Women, did most of the cutting, operating the electrical cutter at Red Cross headquarters. Assistant chairman for the project was Mrs. R. A. Rowlands.

Valueable assistance was given the University Women by individuals and several clubs. Among the organizations which helped were Delta Theta Tau sorority, Matlock Charity band, Daughters of Union Veterans, Conomore club, Mansfield Junior Sororsis, Conversational club, Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority, and a group which was formed in Lincoln Heights especially to assist with this Red Cross sewing. The latter organization has been named the Lincoln Heights Red Cross unit. Members expect to continue aid in whatever way needed.

Early in June, 1941, the A. A. U. W. began Red Cross work in the cutting rooms at the headquarters on West Fourth street. Each Wednesday a group of members met to cut and assemble work to be distributed for home sewing. Total work of this kind, accomplished during the summer months, amounted to 397 boys' wool shorts; 275 men's pajamas, 211 girls' dresses, 52 boys' shirts and 40 convalescents' robes.

Supplies for additional sewing are limited. Groups already organized and anxious to do constructive work are urged to take the first aid courses offered or to volunteer for one of the many other activities conducted by the Red Cross. Individuals and groups can, if they desire, purchase materials to sew and have ready for local emergency supply.

Since completing their sewing and knitting quota, the University Women have organized their own first aid class with Mrs. J. Ward Ingraham as instructor.

Mary J. Wertz Becomes Bride Of M. L. McKee

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Mary Jean Wertz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Wertz, 232 Rowland avenue, and Merrill Lee McKee, son of Mrs. Mildred McKee of near Fredericktown. Vows were exchanged by the couple in a quiet, informal ceremony at the home of the bride's parents at 12:30 p. m. on Feb. 22. Rev. I. D. Archibald performed the single ring service in the presence of approximately 35 relatives.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Wendell McKee of West Lafayette, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a powder blue dress with a shoulder corsage of pink roses and sweet peas. An aquamarine dress was worn by the matron of honor, who had a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses.

Mixed flowers in pastel shades were combined with greenery in the decorations on the mantel. Bouquets were used throughout the home. Following the ceremony luncheon was served buffet style. A tiered cake, surrounded by white stocks and fern, centered the candle-lighted table.

Mrs. McKee, a graduate of Fredericktown high school with the class of 1941, has been associated with the telephone company in Mansfield. Mr. McKee was a member of the same class. The couple will reside on the McKee farm, northwest of Fredericktown.

Auxiliary Plans To Have Benefit Bridge Party Soon

When 16 members of Delano auxiliary met in the lodge hall Tuesday evening, Miss Katherine Hartman gave a talk on the importance of purchasing defense bonds. Mrs. Bessie Ricks presided for the meeting and also urged members to buy as many defense bonds and stamps as possible. She also spoke on Red Cross work.

Plans were made to have a benefit bridge party at the lodge hall on March 17 with Mrs. Elizabeth Blocher as general chairman. The group decided to buy two American flags to be placed in the hall. Lunch was served and bingo was played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Ricks, Mrs. Willa Shay and Mrs. Hedwig Hamilton.

Members will sew for the Red Cross on Tuesday, March 10. Next regular meeting will be held on March 31.

BRIDGE CLUB.

American Legion Auxiliary Bridge club members held a meeting at the Legion home Tuesday afternoon. Hostess was Mrs Frank Duff. Bridge was played and prizes won by Mrs. Clyde Maxwell and Mrs. Owen Smith. The next meeting will be held March 17 with Mrs. John Connors as hostess.

Shower Honors Couple Who Will Wed Soon

Honoring Miss Anita June McLaughlin and Ned Hughes, whose wedding will be an event of Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lanning, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Putnam entertained 20 guests at a shower recently. The party was given at the Lucas home.

Pinochle was played. High prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hughes, who gave their awards to the guest of honor. Luncheon was served at a large table decorated with pink and green appointments and a miniature bridal couple.

Gifts for Miss McLaughlin and Mr. Hughes were placed under a pink and green umbrella.

A. A. U. W. Members Complete Red Cross Quota

Packing articles sewed and knitted for the Red Cross kept members of the American Association of University Women busy at the Red Cross headquarters yesterday. The University Women completed their quota of 100 toddlers' packs, consisting of 2,000 pieces, in four months. Quota for Richland county is 520 packs. Shown in the photo above left are Mrs. Harold D. Burns, A. A. U. W. chairman for the project, and Mrs. Raymond Rowlands, assistant chairman. They are displaying part of the contents of each toddlers' pack Mrs. Merritt Giles is pictured above right, wrapping one of the packs. In the lower right photo three of the A. A. U. W. members who were active in preparation of the garments are shown with the numerous packages. Left to right, they are Mrs. Thomas Hoffman, Mrs. Charles Kuntz, A. A. U. W. branch president, and Mrs. R. D. Lindsay.

Norwalk Scene Of Ceremony Announced Today

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grubb of North Liberty announce the marriage of their daughter, Olive Marie, to Woodrow Myers, son of Elmer Myers of Mansfield. The single ring ceremony was performed in Norwalk on Feb. 21 by Rev. James Alexander Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Attendants for the couple were the former Miss Grubb's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Doup of this city. The bride was attired in a navy blue crepe dress with matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers are making their home in this city where both are employed.

Women of Moose Officers Give Chapter Night

Officers of the local chapter of the Women of the Moose presented their chapter night program at the Moose home Wednesday evening. Five candidates, Mary Wappner, Rhea Triplet, Zelma Darling, Ethel Faye Roselip, and Ruth Eleanor Pittenger, were initiated by members of the Bucyrus chapter of the organization. Two new officers, Mrs. Nell Piller, junior regent, and Mrs. Josephine Russell, argus, were installed.

Honored guests were Mrs. Irene Stuckert, senior regent, of Bucyrus, and Mrs. Irma Wenninger, national conference leader, also of Bucyrus. The charter was draped in memory of the late Mrs. Ruth Carlson. Miss Estella Arras gave a short reading in honor of Mrs. Carlson. A vocal duet was presented by Mrs. Ruth Whipp and Mrs. Mildred Burdette.

Members of the degree team of the Loyal Order of Moose exemplified their ritual work, under the direction of Lester Perry, recorder of the degree team staff, Fifth district. Gifts were presented to Mrs. Stuckert, Mrs. Wenninger and Mr. Perry. Mrs. Mabel Keller, ritual committee chairman, presented a gift to Mrs. Ruth Reamsnider, ritual chairman of the Bucyrus chapter. The next meeting will be held March 18 at the Moose home.

Bath Size Camay

Mother may think I'm the same dirty-faced little girl that was making mud pies in the back yard. But I'm not. I'm a fairy princess bathing in style. I start with a brimming tub and BATH SIZE CAMAY. Then I rub this great big cake a couple of times and presto—I'm covered with a lather—millions and millions of lovely bubbles for a real luxury bath.

I have more fun playing with all these sweet smelling Camay bubbles. Some of them tickle my nose, some wash my ears, some scrub my neck... and without any hard rubbin' at all I m spic and span down to the tips of my toes ... just the way a fairy princess should be.

Mummy said if I want to be a real fairy princess I must have a beautiful complexion. And then she told me about the wonderful Camay Mild-Soap Diet. She says if I'd give my face a thorough beauty cleansing with Camay twice a day, it would help to keep my skin lovely always.

I feel so good—I smell so good—and I betcha I look good, too, after my Camay beauty bath! My, I'm so glad Mummy bought BATH SIZE CAMAY! Daddy and brother like to use it just as much as Mummy and me. Have you ever tried BATH SIZE CAMAY? No? Well, get some today! I know you'll love it!

Audubon Club Meets at Home Of Mrs. Clark

Hostess to the Audubon club at her home, 148 Stewart avenue, on Tuesday was Mrs. Hugh Clark. Fifteen members and two guests, Mrs. Roy Dennis of Wabash, Ind., and Mrs. S. G. White, were present. A paper read by Mrs. Carl Torrence was entitled "Native Wild Flowers."

Dr. J. T. Fulton, of the Ohio State Dental Mobile unit, spoke on "Preservation of Children's Teeth." He showed interesting slides picturing dental defects and their correction.

Officers will be elected at the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Hainer, 62 Bartley avenue, on April 7.

Atlantic Monthly Program Given For Nomad Club

When Mrs. Richard Fishback, 371 North Townview circle, was hostess to the Nomad club at her home Wednesday, Mrs. Edward Gibson presented the Atlantic Monthly program on the subject, "Art In Education," by George Boas. She was assisted in the panel discussion by Mrs. Harry E. Cave and Mrs. Louis A. Meisse. Each member had brought a treasured piece of art to the meeting. Histories of the articles were told by their exhibitors.

Bouquets of roses were used in the living room and on the luncheon table. Program for next year was discussed. On March 18, Mrs. Cave will entertain the club at her home, 42 Blymyer avenue. Mrs. Charles M. Jelliff and Miss Dorothy Dann will present the Atlantic Monthly program.

Tabitha Class Meets With Mrs. Lowry

Tabitha class of the First Lutheran church, taught by Mrs. Grover E. Swoyer, was entertained by Mrs. Earl Lowry, 515 Woodward avenue, Tuesday. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Roger Delaney, Mrs. Benton Doolittle, Mrs. Russell Schaaf, Mrs. Lucille Walters and Mrs. Samuel Harkins.

Mrs. Frieda Lutz had charge of devotions. Talk was given by Mrs. Russell Gimbel, of Friendly House, who described work being done and showed pictures. Miss Rose Swoyer was a guest. Lunch was served.

SOCIETY MEETS.

Members of the Women's Missionary society of the First Lutheran church held their regular monthly meeting in the parish house Wednesday evening. The topic, "Teach Us How to Pray," was given by Mrs. Edward Bricker and Mrs. Milton Johnson. Mrs. I. S. Perry, president, conducted the business session. Mission study will be held March 25 in the assembly room at 7:30 p. m. The next regular meeting of the society will be held April 1 in the assembly room at 1 p. m.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

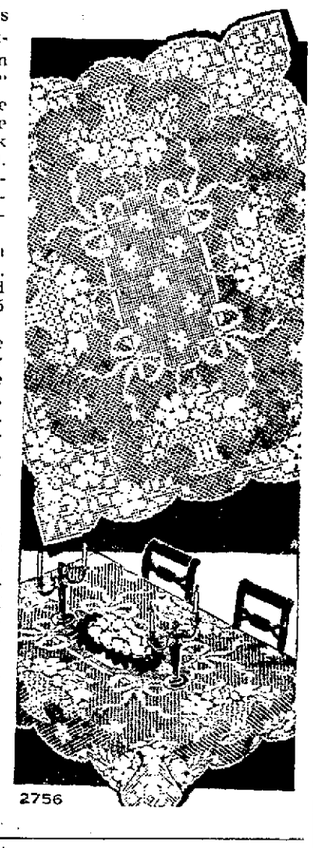
By MARIAN MARTIN

Start your day right in this charming home frock from Pattern 9777. It's so inexpensive in one of the new "flower tint" prints! Gay buttons accent the tabs at the waist and yoke; the yoke, back bodice and sleeves look bright when made of contrast. Notice how the rows of darts below the yoke add becoming bodice fullness! Long and three-quarter sleeves are optional.

Pattern 9777 may be ordered in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for this Marian Martin Pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal Pattern Dept., 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.



By LAURA WHEELER

Here's that rich lace cloth you've dreamed of, and it's yours with little expense! Filet crochet it in string for larger sizes—fine cotton for smaller sizes. You'll receive many compliments. Pattern 2756 contains chart and directions for cloth in various sizes; illustrations of it and stitches; materials required.

Send ten cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

For a long second Mr. Milner, manager of the Lansfield, looked at my father as if he thought the elder man had taken leave of his senses.

"None that I know of," he said. "The Lansfield has but one entrance."

My father looked at him in exasperation.

"I am not talking about ordinary entrances," he said. "I am talking about basements, wine cellars, furnace rooms or any other sub-pavement recesses.

"This is our dilemma. It is vitally necessary that we get out of the hotel within fifteen minutes, and without being seen at the front entrance."

"You could go down to the basement and come up at the tradesmen's entrance," Mr. Milner suggested hopefully.

"On the same street as the entrance?" my father asked witheringly.

"Yes, of course, but several doors farther down."

Men Watching.

"I'm sorry," my father said, as if he were explaining something to a moron in words of one syllable, "but that would not help us at all. We wish to escape the eyes of people who are now watching for us on the street in front of the hotel."

"I see," Mr. Milner said, and wrapped himself in deep meditation, from which he was quickly prodded by my father.

"If you haven't knowledge of your own concerning this, is there any man employed in the basements of the hotel who might know?" he asked.

The manager brightened.

"There's O'Hara," he said "He's the furnace man, and he's been here simply ages."

"How soon can you get him up here?" my father snapped impatiently.

"Up here?" Mr. Milner said incredulously. "Why! he'll be all grimy, and—"

Summons Furnace Man.

"What difference does that make?" my father snapped. "It won't affect his tongue or the knowledge in his head. Please get him here at once."

Mr. Milner turned obediently to the telephone.

"Send O'Hara up here immediately," he said. "This room number."

It was at least three minutes before O'Hara appeared, and when he did my father repeated to him the question he had put to Mr. Milner.

O'Hara did not answer my father at first, but looked to his immediate superior for permission to reveal secrets of the hotel.

"It's all right, O'Hara," the manager said. "I don't know the answer to this myself, but if you do, let us have it."

Underground Passageway.

"Well, sir," O'Hara said, addressing my father and the manager impartially, "there is one, of course; there always is, in these old buildings. It leads from a door in our furnace room to a long passageway. At the other end of that is a door leading to the furnace room of the Shoreham building, which faces on the next street. But those doors are always kept locked."

My father put his hand in his pocket and brought out a five dollar bill, which he handed to O'Hara, although the manager frowned involuntarily at the tip.

"We must have quick action," he said. "Get to the furnace man in that other building as quickly as you can, and arrange to have him unlock that door when you rap on it.

Redfield Interrupts.

"As soon as you have secured his consent, telephone me here in this room, then wait in your own room for my daughter and me. We will come down to you directly afterward."

O'Hara looked to his employer again, and Mr. Milner gave him instant reassurance.

"It's all right, O'Hara," he said. "Try to get quick action."

"I'll do that, sir," he said with emphasis, and hurried out.

"Shall I stay here?" Mr. Milner asked.

"If you please," my father said, "O'Hara may run into complications."

Three minutes later the telephone rang, and Mr. Milner exclaimed "Quick work." But when my father answered the telephone, he frowned portentously and then said:

"Stephen Redfield, Margaret, asking for you."

Ideal Way To Bring Up Little Ones

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

WITH MORE than usual interest, I have observed at short, scattered periods with my own eyes and ears and, other times, at a distance, the bringing up of two little girls now nearly three years and one year, respectively.

The grandparents are far enough away to do no harm. Nor do they offer any suggestions to the parents during occasional brief visits, except when asked to do so and then they give advice sparingly.

Long before the first child was born, the parents often talked together over plans for bringing up the child. Since then they have spent much time reviewing their plans for the future.

Before the child they act as one. They have complete accord in the child's upbringing in her presence and appear to have no disagreements about her in her absence.

Long before the first child could toddle, they agreed to teach her the meaning of No by means of spanking. She got very few but these were effective and she learned safety habits and respect for the rights of others. During the several times I have visited in the home I have never seen either child spanked or heard them shouted at. I once saw the older child sentenced to sit in a chair for 15 minutes.

Parents Cooperate

The father, a professional man, has his evenings and week-ends home. He regularly bathes the older child, reads her a story and puts her to bed while the mother cares for the baby. The mother talks to the baby while caring for her. I am sure this procedure has contributed to the good speech development of the older child and will further speech progress in the younger.

These children never whine and almost never cry. But how they smile! It's a joy to look into their faces and hear their voices.

Here are some of the secrets of the parents' success, plans both have agreed to: remarkable poise and self-control, patience, insight and warmth of affection toward the children.

If I could describe adequately these little children and how their parents are bringing them up I would have a good manual for young parents. Now I know it can be done.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 6

CONFLICTING and contradictory astral influences make this a difficult day to manipulate to successful and gratifying goals. This had best be attempted by compromise and diplomacy rather than by argument, persuasion or other forceful rather than tactful measures. This especially where superiors, employers or those in authority are involved. The public reactions or group approbation may be difficult to enlist, unless by particular shrewdness.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a successful and prosperous year by methods of tact, diplomacy, amiability and graciousness rather than dispute, argument, or running counter to those in influential positions. Particular tact and regard for policy may be needful to break down opposition and want of cooperation from the public or to gain any sort of collective approval. Be modest in claims, thrifty, conservative and prudent for best results.

A child born on this day should be shrewd and talented and should attain success through subtlety, intrigue or secret strategies.

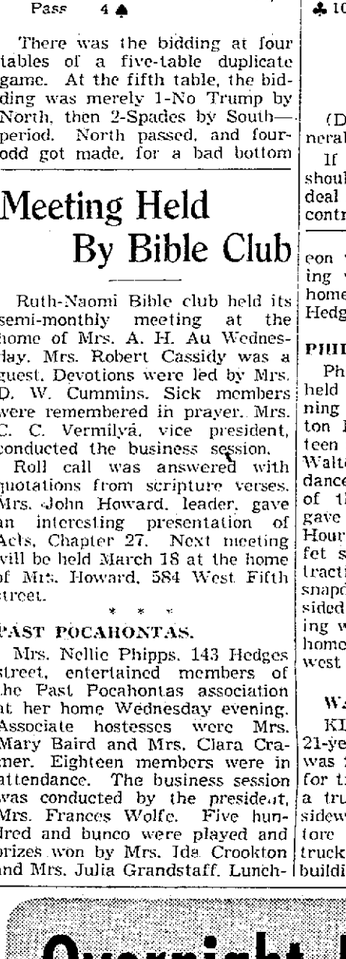
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHICH ARE YOU USING?

Nobody can say arbitrarily that one language is definitely better than another. It is the same with bidding systems, which are practically nothing but languages whereby you can tell your partner what you hold, and he can tell you. The most important thing is for you to know what language he is speaking, and to understand it, and for him to do likewise. Otherwise you will have some funny disasters—that is, funny to the enemy.



(Dealer West. Both sides vulnerable.)

	West	North	East	South
1	Pass	1 NT	Pass	2 ♠
	Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
2	Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 ♠
	Pass	4 ♠
3	Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 ♠
	Pass	3 NT
4	Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠
	Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 ♠
	Pass	4 ♠

There was the bidding at four tables of a five-table duplicate game. At the fifth table, the bidding was merely 1-No Trump by North, then 2-Spades by South—period. North passed, and four-odd got made, for a bad bottom score, since the side did not bid game.

Perhaps the lesson of the deal is this: if you are with a new partner and don't know how he handles No Trump bids, open with 1-Club as North did at Table 4. You are less likely to get into trouble then as there is not so much difference in the ways responses are handled to suit bids as those to No Trumpers.

At Table No. 5, the No Trump bid was by a man used to making them only on very big hands. If the partner's hand is worth anything at all, he must show it by jumping to three in a major. If he goes only to two, it is to say the hand is worthless, so the original bidder passes South didn't know that, or would have bid 3-Spades.

Note how differently the other tables handled it—no two exactly alike. Of course, those who bid the game in either spades or No Trumps made it easily, by playing the spade suit correctly, leading the Q toward the A when both 10 and 9 are held.

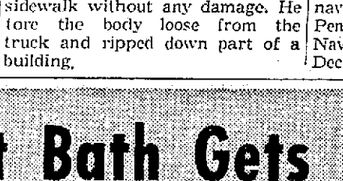
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If West leads the club 2, how should South plan the play of this deal in match point duplicate at a contract of 6-Spades?

Meeting Held By Bible Club

Ruth-Naomi Bible club held its semi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. H. Au Wednesday. Mrs. Robert Cassidy was a guest. Devotions were led by Mrs. D. W. Cummins. Sick members were remembered in prayer. Mrs. C. C. Vermilya, vice president, conducted the business session.

Roll call was answered with quotations from scripture verses. Mrs. John Howard, leader, gave an interesting presentation of Acts, Chapter 27. Next meeting will be held March 18 at the home of Mrs. Howard, 584 West Fifth street.

PHILOMATHIAN CLUB.

Philomathian club members held a meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Thornton Moore, Andover road. Fourteen members and one guest, Mrs. Walter McConnell, were in attendance. Rev. Glenn Lewis, pastor of the Grace Episcopal church, gave a talk on "The Man of the Hour." Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table attractively decorated with pink snapdragons. Mrs. McConnell presided at the table. The next meeting will be held March 18 at the home of Mrs. Martin Brunner, west of the city.

WALKS NEED WIDENING

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. — (U.P.) — A 21-year-old former taxi operator was fined $50 in police court here for trying to prove he could drive a truck down a business district sidewalk without any damage. He tore the body loose from the truck and ripped down part of a building.

How to Normalize Your Legs

By MME. QUI VIVE.

It is a funny thing. A girl will bawl and blubber about anatomical defect that worries her and will deliberately accentuate it. For example, the girl with skinny pins. Her skirt reveals the knee cap, which is higher than fashion demands, and she crams her little feet into shoes that have spikes the highest that can be found. The kilt and the spikes make her legs look longer and thinner. One inch added to the skirt hem, an inch taken from the heels and her frail legs will pass. We have noticed these cases many times.

High heels mean that exercise is avoided because walking is a trial. The result: Leg muscles, having no work to do, lose elasticity and firmness. Thin legs can be developed, unless a girl is undernourished and in poor health. A brisk walk every day, riding a bicycle, walking tippy toe will cultivate normal measurements and pleasing contour. If the entire body is underweight, it is necessary to add to the diet more food elements that build adipose tissue—rich cream, butter, custards, hot cereals, potatoes, macaroni, cream soups. A quart of milk a day will put fat on the ribs.

Slender legs are lovely and attractive. But skinny ones are something else.

The heavyweight, ever conscious of her fatted calves, seldom makes the mistake of wearing skirts too abbreviated. She is only too anxious to curtain the expanded curves. But she does err sometimes when it comes to shoes, packing her trotters into short, chunky shoes with straps. More substantial shoes with lower heels will make the ankles appear smaller.

There's talk again about black stockings being worn, but women seem to be fighting shy of them. They are grand for the full-legged woman because they slenderize. The next best choice is beige of as dark a tone as one can find. Sheers of course make legs appear smaller than the heavier service weaves. In all cases, stockings should be harnessed up tightly, without a sign of a crinkle, and the seam laid straight.

Good walking habits keep the legs in form. The slouchy shamble, affected by some of our young ladies, will cause the fibers of the legs to soften. The step should be brisk, the movements of the body easy, if the musculature of the physical being is to be sound.

Keep as tall as you can be. Hold in the abdominal muscles. That practice alone will keep the waist from thickening. Do deep breathing exercises whenever you think of it.

Rope jumping is an exercise that is splendid for building up emaciated pins and for slicing down thick ones, because it has a normalizing effect.

Uncle Sam has been training naval aviators for 27 years. The Pensacola, Fla., air station, the Navy's first, was established in December, 1914.

LAUNCH FIRST AID CLASSES

Red Cross Graduates Conduct Training Among Employes In Shelby Factories.

SHELBY—Fifteen persons who recently completed the Red Cross first aid instructor's course at Mansfield will instruct first aid classes for the Shelby factories here starting next week

Classes will be held at the Ohio Seamless Tube company, Shelby Salesbook company, and Shelby Cycle company. Dr. W. J. Briggs will have charge of a class for the Shelby district school bus drivers and the auxiliary firemen.

To complete the course at Mansfield, the Shelby residents had to motor to Mansfield twice a week to attend a three-hour class. All of the instructors had finished the standard Red Cross first aid course before taking the instructor's course.

PUPILS PREPARE FOR OPERETTA

300 at Appleseed Arranging For 'Ask the Professor' To Be Given March 22.

Getting ready for their annual operetta in the school auditorium March 22, more than 300 pupils of Johnny Appleseed junior high school today are taking part in some line of dramatic endeavor

Although few of the 330 will actually appear on the stage, the others are designing and building the scenery and preparing the musical parts of the show

Entitled "Ask the Professor," the operetta will be presented by the following cast under the direction of Elzabetta Ruth Mary Jane Lewis, Jo Ann Beelman, Robert Meyer, Jane Manz Nancy Giles, James Wolf, Connor Fay, Helen McCracken and George Ridenour.

Besides this there are between 30 and 40 members of a chorus which will fill in the musical background.

Faculty members in charge of the various departments contributing to the production are Helen Herring and Virginia Stark, art department; Harold Hostetler and Garry Clouse, shops, Dorothy Stearns, school newspaper and English department, and Ellen Percy and A L Derr, music department

TO GET OR NOT TO GET CAMP--- THAT'S CHILLICOTHE QUESTION

(By Associated Press)

CHILLICOTHE—You can get any kind of bet or opinion today on whether the army will build a $5 000 000 cantonment near here

Business men who want the camp for the revenue it would bring, and farmers who don't want to give up their land for a camp dug through this maze of official pronouncements in search of an answer

Late Tuesday Rep Harold K Claypool (D-Ohio) said he was informed the camp would be built

A few minutes later he reported that this was erroneous and that the war department merely had authorized payment for surveys already made.

Within an hour army spokesmen asserted a contract for advanced planning had been awarded Toledo engineers and that the cantonment would be constructed

Yesterday morning the war department announced that plans for the camp had been cancelled No explanation was given

Yesterday afternoon the war department's public relations bureau cancelled the cancellation and said a camp would be built

Confused Chillicothe residents turned to their congressman and fellow townsman today for the key to the riddle and got this answer from Claypool in Washington

He was uncertain, but did not believe the camp would be built

The United States Senate has sat as a Court of Impeachment in twelve cases since the establishment of the nation

Something New Has Been Added In Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn — (WW) —A half dozen new "super" vegetables, fruits and nuts have been made available for general production by the University of Tennessee experiment station here

Dr Brooks Drain, experiment station horticulturist, reports major seed houses already are distributing seed of two of them, the new african squash and the essary tomato

"The squash is a fine family quality," he asserts. "The big feature of it is that it is completely resistant to the pickle worm which has hitherto made East Tennessee squash raising almost prohibitive.

"The tomato, developed near Newport, Tenn, by the late Dr S. H. Essary of the University, has unusualy resistant foliage and a big red fruit which critical canneries have approved enthusiastically."

After 15 years of work, Dr Drain's department has developed an oriental chestnut at Clarksville, Tenn., that is immune, he says, to the blight which has virtually denuded chestnut groves of the nation.

CONDITION IMPROVED

BUCYRUS — The condition of Mrs. Minnie Miller and Mrs. Beulah Phillips, Ashland residents, who suffered severe injuries when their automobile crashed headon into a truck east of Bucyrus, early Tuesday, were reported improved at City hospital today.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it can't be beaten

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved No cooking needed It's no trouble at all

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

IF YOUR NOSE "CLOSES UP" TONIGHT

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE

Here's mighty good news . . . If your nose "closes up" tonight and makes breathing difficult, put 3-purpose Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril.

Va-tro-nol does 3 important things. It (1) shrinks swollen membranes, (2) soothes irritation, (3) relieves transient nasal congestion. It brings more comfort, makes breathing easier, thus invites sleep . . . And remember, it helps prevent many colds developing if used in time. Follow directions in folder.

Vichy Protests Pacific Recognition

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—The reorganization of the war department high command may not be perfect, but it should please this column, because it is, in many respects, exactly what has been recommended here especially recently.

Gen. Johnson.

There is nothing very new about it. The idea of having one ground commander for the United States and abolishing the offices of chiefs of infantry, cavalry and artillery is a leaf taken out of the German book. The old organization made soldiers and officers "branch conscious" and promoted jealousies and friction.

Now a man, in whatever branch he serves, is a simple soldier of the United States—not primarily a soldier of horse, foot or guns. He has nothing to gain in either pride or promotion in plugging for one branch at the expense of another.

It is "one for all and all for one"—which is as it should be in any army.

Another thing:

This change takes from the overburdened shoulders of the chief of staff, the terrible task of dealing with literally dozens of subordinate commanders of tactical and territorial organizations—not to mention another dozen supply department heads and the divisions of the general staff.

He has only to deal with the C. O. of troops in the "zone of the interior," (McNair); the C. O. of the service of supply, (Somervell), and the C. O. of the army air corps (Arnold).

He will still have a small general staff to work out particular problems, but nothing like the present hide-bound bureaucracy of T-crossers, I-dotters and comma enthusiasts. Our old general staff had completely outlived its usefulness. This move will cut miles of red tape.

The move making Somervell chief of the service of supply was even more important. We had something like nine separate purchasing bureaus. They bid against each other and competed for transportation, materials, labor and factory facilities.

It has been said that the nearest worldly approach to immortality is a government bureau. I found that out.

We tried something very much like the new domestic S. O. S. plan in the United States in 1918, because war department supply had broken down. I had the unwelcome job of trying to consolidate the hydra-headed system of army purchase and supply.

We bulled part of it through—for which I reaped the lasting ill will of several bureau chiefs. In the main, the larger part of the program couldn't be put over.

In France it was different. General Pershing set up his own S. O. S., and, while it didn't work at first, he was 3,000 miles away from Washington and had single authority and responsibility. He also had a "reclassification" center at Blois where non-cooperators were sent and given a hearing

General Pershing knew exactly what he wanted. It wasn't very long before his S. O. S. was working to perfection.

Somervell will have to be a tough guy to do this job. He will also have to have the unwavering support of Secretary Stimson, Under Secretary Patterson and the president. He is tough enough, and about the farthest removed from being a "yes man" of anybody in Washington.

There is still no new coordination of army and navy air forces. In fact nothing in this new order would of itself have prevented Pearl Harbor.

Yet it is all good and there are other changes in prospect equally good. The administration seems to have lost its fear of delegating authority.

KILLED BY AUTO

FOSTORIA—(INS)—A. A. Esterly, 65, was killed when struck by an auto as he crossed a downtown Fostoria street.

SAYS HE WAS 'INSPIRED' TO SLAY PARENTS

Church Organist Tells How He Chloroformed Mother, Burned Father.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—Courtney F. Rogers, 24, a bearded church organist who has confessed slaying his parents, related how the playing of hymns "inspired" him to kill his father, police said today.

Rogers confessed Tuesday that he had killed his father, Courtney C. Rogers, 55, a boilermaker, last Oct. 5, leaving him to die in a gas-filled, burning home. Authorities had believed the elder Rogers was an accident victim.

He confessed yesterday that he had killed his mother, Lily, 44, on Feb. 10, 1941. A coroner's report listed Mrs. Rogers as a suicide victim, who had killed herself with chloroform.

Officers in the sheriff's bureau of investigation announced they would seek murder complaints today. Rogers said he would sign the confessions.

His father had made him and his mother unhappy, he said, and they had quarreled over property the son inherited from his mother.

"I went to the church and played hymns and some classical music," Rogers said. "I can think better when I play like that—alone. I did it a lot late at night. While I played I figured out how I could set the fire to the house with candles.

"Dad was asleep when I got back. He had been drinking quite heavily. I got five candles and put one in the kitchen, two in the dining room and one in each bedroom. Then I put rags and papers around them so when they burned down it could burn all at once. I lighted them, turned on the gas jets and left."

In a verbal confession, Rogers said he had killed his mother "because I had a bitter childhood, because I wanted to get her property—but most of all because my mother had an unhappy marriage and I wanted to put her out of physical pain."

His written confession said he had poured chloroform on cotton held over the face of his sleeping mother.

He collected $1,000 insurance on the death of his father and $1,600 insurance on the burned home.

FOUND DEAD

Autopsy Set Today For Carl Smalley of Hayesville.

HAYESVILLE—J. Carl Smalley, 52, was found dead yesterday afternoon at his home here. Dr. George Emery, Ashland county coroner, indicated death was probably due to natural causes, but announced an autopsy will be held today to determine exact cause of death.

Smalley was a life-long resident of Ashland county, having been born in Ashland, April 26, 1899. He was married Feb. 8, 1919 to Lucille Helbert, who survives.

Other surviving relatives are: three daughters, Mrs. Carl Schmall of Mansfield, Mrs. David J. Sigler of Ashland, and Mary Ann, at home, a granddaughter, his father, J. F. Smalley of Mansfield, and his mother, Mrs. Vivian Smalley, of Redhaw, three sisters, Mrs. Harold Homerich and Mrs. George Henderson of Mansfield, and Mrs. Albert Mohank of South Dakota, and a brother, Chester, of Ashland.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at Denbow-Bear funeral home, conducted by Rev. F. L. Mitzel, pastor of the Hayesville Methodist church, of which Mr Smalley was a member. Burial will be made in Hayesville cemetery.

DECLARES AEF 'HAS THE STUFF'

Sergeant, In Army 26 Years, Says Boys In Ireland Like Brooklyn 'Bums.'

(By United Press)

WITH THE AEF IN NORTHERN IRELAND — Take it from First Sergt. George A. Hopkins of Brooklyn' the American soldiers in Ireland are just like his beloved flatbush "bums."

"I rate these boys like I do the bums," he said. "They got the stuff if you can ever get it out of 'em."

Hopkins has been in the army 26 years. He started soldiering before the United States entered the first World war. He's as hardboiled as the traditional sergeant and when he walked off the gangplank at a north Irish port with the thousands of soldiers sent here to reinforce the first troops of the new AEF, he was probably the calmest man in the crowd.

Hopkins wasn't the only veteran with the new troops. There were numerous regulars, many with 15 or more years service and experience. To them the assignment was just another phase in their business of soldiering.

With the selectees, however, it was frequently different.

Pvt. Francis Luwecki of Toledo, O., talked along the same lines

"It isn't what I'd like to do, it's what they tell me to do," he said. "The banks of the Maumee looks mighty good to me at Christmas time, but I figured I had a job to do and now I'm here."

State to Call on Hunters to Aid In Emergency Defense

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio game protectors and supervisors were assigned "minute man" duties in war defense today by Gov. John W. Bricker who directed the group of more than 100 men to prepare for possible enemy action here.

The conservation field men will enroll trustworthy hunters who own high-powered rifles as volunteer bridge and dam guards in emergencies, map the location of such important utilities as dams, electric power lines, reservoirs, dynamite warehouses, hospital and first aid stations, and lay out possible detour routes should air raids tie up major highway traffic.

Courtney Burton, executive director of the state defense council, and Don Waters, state conservation commissioner, mapped the program approved by the governor.

Governor Bricker instructed the conservation agents to make weekly reports of their defense activities and cooperate with the highway patrol.

USE OHIO TANKS

NORWALK—(AP)—Ohio soldiers used Ohio-made tanks in a recent attack on the Batan peninsula, Gov. John W. Bricker said in a McKinley day address last night.

ACCOUNTANT DIES

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Isaac W. Danford, 85, a former chief accountant in the excise tax division of the state auditor's office, died yesterday.

OHIO-MADE NAVY SCOUT PLANE COMPLETES ITS MAIDEN FLIGHT

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — A sleek aluminum bird with a tireless, steel cylindered heart rested in its Port Columbus hangar today while skilled mechanics and keen-eyed engineers searched it for flaws after a maiden flight.

In aviation circles the bird is a Curtiss-Wright Seagull or SO3C-1 navy scouting plane, the first to be produced at the $14,000,000 Curtiss-Wright plant at Port Columbus.

Test Pilot Barton T. Hulse took the craft aloft yesterday while hundreds of employes breathlessly watched the product of their skill go through its paces.

When Hulse landed his report was:

"Just another flight—with a good plane."

The Seagull is the first of thousands which will pour from the Columbus factory to serve as "eyes of the navy" in its far flung sea operations against Axis powers.

It can take off from and alight upon the decks of cruisers and battleships and can be equipped with either wheels or pontoons for operations over land or water.

ILLNESS FATAL

RESUMES STAND IN DEATH TRIAL

Guard to Be Cross-Examined In Slaying of Wife.

LIMA —(INS)— Ray Siler, husky guard for violent patients at the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane, was to undergo cross-examination as the second degree murder trial of James Maloney, 28, resumed today.

The defendant is charged with the silk-stocking strangulation of Siler's wife, Goldie, on the hospital grounds.

Siler yesterday described the movements of his wife the night of Nov. 5 prior to her strangulation.

ORDERED TO DUTY

MEMPHIS, Tenn — (AP) — The army has ordered Raymond G. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, of Tennessee, to report March 13 for active duty He has a second lieutenant's commission.

Laff-a-Day

"She said they're taking an apartment for the duration, but she's been married so many times I don't know what she meant."

The boys at Bushnell elementary vocation school are participating in the Red Cross first aid program by making splints for first aid classes or the individual members. About 20 boys are now constructing splints according to Roy Spetka, principal at the school, and they are offering them at cost to Red Cross groups desiring this type of equipment.

The elevation in Richland county, one of the highest points in Ohio, varies nearly 500 feet from the eastern to southern sections of the county. Figures posted in County Engineer Howard Sword's office show that the county's highest point is near the intersection of the Marion avenue road and Lexington-Springmill road southwest of the city. The elevation there is 1,479 feet. Lowest point in the county is at the Blackfork bridge on U. S. route 30 near Mifflin where the level is 994 feet. Elevation at Mansfield's Central park is about average for the county at 1,240 feet.

It was just 17 years ago yesterday that Mansfield's present municipal building came into use. Employes moved over from the old city hall which was located at Walnut and Park avenue west where the Walpark building now stands. There was no ceremony held in observance of the anniversary but several of the veteran employes recalled the date and talked over "the old days."

School board headquarters in John Simpson junior high school is populated with pessimists. This morning as fire trucks traveled west along West Fourth street, the first thing the employes did was telephone Senior high school to determine whether the blaze was there. It turned out to be a house fire and they went back to work.

WIDOW, 79, DIES

Mrs. Mellie VanNess Taken By Death at Home Today.

Mrs. Mellie Moore VanNess, 79, widow of Silas W. VanNess, died this morning at her home, 548 Park avenue west, following an illness of several months.

Born at Millersburg, Oct. 29, 1862, she came to Mansfield from Tiffin in 1909 and has remained here since. She was a member of the Central Methodist church.

Surviving are two daughters, Margaret VanNess at home and Mrs. Robert Taylor of Birmingham, Ala; a brother, William B Moore of Santa Anna, Calif.; and a sister, Mrs. Luella Richey of Avilla, Ind

The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home but will be returned to her home late this afternoon. Rev. R. L. Foulke will conduct services there Saturday at 3 p. m. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN ROOM

$1,500 Diamond Ring Missing In New York Strangling Case.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Cruelly strangled, the body of Mrs. Marion K. Reich, about 50, was found today in a mid-town hotel room whose registered occupants were said to have checked out yesterday.

Police said a $1,500 diamond ring was missing from the victim's left hand.

The woman's husband, a watch manufacturer, told police his wife had left their own hotel room, eight blocks distant, at noon yesterday to keep a luncheon engagement with the man and woman in whose room Mrs. Reich's body was found.

ENVOY WILL REVEAL STAND TO U. S. TODAY

Expected To Resent American Position That Free French Have Sovereignty.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye today intends to make a strong representation to the state department against he American government's action in agreeing to recognize Free French control over the Pacific islands of New Caledonia and New Oceania.

The French envoy will express his disapproval to Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles. He is understood to take the position that the sovereignty of the islands rests with Vichy, and that no agreements concerning them should be made without the prior knowledge and approval of that government.

American recognition of Free French control over the islands was disclosed on Monday, when Welles announced an agreement for joint American-Free French defense of the strategically important islands lying off Australia.

In extending recognition to the Free French commissioner of the island the American government said:

"In its relation with the local French authorities in French territory the United States has been and will continue to be governed by the manifest effectiveness with which those authorities endeavor to protect their territory from domination and control by the common enemy."

Welles is expected to reiterate this policy to Henry-Haye today.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the British bombing raid on the German-controlled Renault Motor works in the Paris suburbs was prompted, in part, by secret information that those factories were turning out planes and tanks for Germany.

One report received by the British government said the Renault factories had turned out as many as 300 planes a month for the Germans.

In addition to the military factors involved, political considerations are also believed to have figured in the decision to bomb the German-controlled French factories which have been manufacturing vital war supplies for Germany.

While the British bombing raid on the Paris suburb is expected to intensify anti-British feeling in Vichy, responsible quarters in Washington said it does not represent any change in the American government's policy toward the French government of Marshall Henri Petain. This government, these sources said, will continue to maintain friendly relations with Vichy as long as Petain keeps his promise not to turn over the French fleet to Germany or render military assistance to the Axis.

Escape Injury In Car's Plunge But Not Fine In Court

Two Crestline men who escaped with minor scratches late Wednesday when their car dived off an eight-foot abutment and turned over twice south of Lexington were fined $5 each this morning in Mansfield municipal court.

Deputy Sheriffs G. C. Humphrey and J. R. Hetler said both men had been drinking. The driver of the car was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, but his fine was reduced to a minimum when the court learned he was a mental case.

The driver's unusual behavior at the accident scene and again in court led to an investigation by county authorities. Crestline police took him to Bucyrus today for a hearing in probate court.

Frank Anderson, 49, a passenger in the car, was cited for intoxication.

The driver of the car was still at the wheel when officers arrived at the accident scene on the Fredericktown road about five miles south of Lexington. The car stopped on its wheel beside a creek, the deputies said.

CLOUD HEIGHTS QUICKLY FOUND BY PHOTO EYE

New Measuring Method Aid To Weather Bureau and Aviators.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Scientists have developed a new method of measuring the height of clouds which is expected to help the U. S. Weather Bureau and aviators.

The glow of a tiny searchlight is spotted on clouds during the daytime and the height is computed by simple geometry, triangulation.

The method was developed by the bureau of standards at the request of the weather bureau and is explained in the bureau of standards' Journal of Research.

A small 1,000-watt mercury lamp developed for searchlights and television studios is used in the new system. The "splatter" of the light where it hits the under-side of the cloud is perceived by a photoelectric eye separated from the light on the ground.

"During the daytime," scientists explained, "dark overcast clouds at an elevation of 9,000 feet have been readily detected. For cumulus clouds illuminated by direct sunlight and having elevations up to 4,000 feet, the detection is positive."

The projector consists of the lamp in front of a 2-foot parabolic mirror. The "electric eye" detector receives the light through a lens and a slit diaphragm.

The narrow beam from the lamp is projected into the sky at a frequency of 120 flashes a second and the rays scatter when they hit the clouds. This light scattering is detected by the photo electric eye located at a known distance from the lamp and adjusted for the flash frequency so that the beam may be distinguished from background atmospheric light.

The weather bureau now uses small helium-filled captive balloons for the job. The balloons are reeled out like kits and observed through optical instruments. When the balloon disappears into the cloud, its height is estimated by the length of played-out line.

The height of clouds, of course, is important in determining "ceiling" of visibility and the safety of conditions for plane flight. In addition the data are important in forecasting the weather.

Asserts Colds Can Be Wiped Out By Purification of Air

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND.—By purifying indoor air at a cost less than that of conducting a war, the common cold can be wiped out in the United States.

Evidence, presented to the American Medical Association, of experiments performed in the country proved the effectiveness of preventing colds through purification of indoor air.

One exhibit, prepared by Cradle, nursery for infants at Evanston, Ill., had three units, all air conditioned, which demonstrated cold prevention. Besides, two of the units had separate safeguards; one was fitted with overhead ultra-violet lights, the other was composed of individual cubicles so that the nurse would not come in direct contact with the baby, but would handle it through a small window.

These cubicles were filled with positive-pressure air. The pressure inside is greater than that outside, so when opened, air would be kept out. All air entering the cubicles is warmed, is brought in from the outside and carries only the infections, if any floating normally in outdoor air and not from within the room.

Recently, when a cold epidemic struck the Cradle, 12 nurses were affected. None went home, however, but continued at their respective jobs. All babies, except one, in the room having only air conditioning caught colds. In the other room, with the ultra violet lights and the cubicles, not one baby caught a cold.

Doctors pointed out that indoor air can be purified sufficiently to prevent the colds inasmuch as outdoor air does not circulate colds. Outdoor air is polluted with infection by common colds, they declared, but the infection appears to be diluted rapidly below the danger point.

SPORTS TROPHY COSTS 30 CENTS

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(U.P.)—Michigan's "Little Brown Jug" cost the school only 30 cents when it was new 38 years ago.

Tom Roberts of Chicago, student manager of Michigan's 1903 football team, disclosed that the jug, which now is perched in Minnesota's trophy room, was bought by him so that he could carry water to the players in their game at Minneapolis.

Michigan forgot and left the jug there in 1903. The Gophers decorated it and told Michigan that when the teams met again in 1909 the Wolverines could have it back only if they won it. Michigan did and ever since then the jug has remained the traditional prize of the ancient football rivalry between the Big Ten schools.

Queen Wilhelmina Finds Solace In Riding on Bicycle

LONDON—(INS)—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands is finding peace on a bicycle in the quiet lanes of the Thames river valley.

Wearing an old-fashioned coat and skirt, a scarf and a soft hat, the 61-year-old queen is out almost every afternoon accompanied by a lady-in-waiting.

Villagers are getting to know her by sight, for nothing but the coldest weather or important state affairs are allowed to interfere with the ride.

The queen was always a keen cyclist. Before the invasion of the Netherlands her people often saw her riding in the neighborhood of Soestdyke Palace.

She had to leave her bicycle behind when she fled to England.

Queen Wilhelmina did not like the idea of riding in London parks, and so it was not until she had settled in her wartime home some miles from London that a new bicycle made its appearance.

DEMANDS COURT TRIAL FOR ELK

OURAY, Colo.—(U.P.)—The elk which roam the streets of Ouray, graze in the mayor's yard and seek handouts at backdoors have found a champion in the Ouray Rotary club.

Meeting in official session the club demanded by unanimous vote that no more of the elk be killed without a regular court hearing.

"Every elk is an American citizen and is entitled to an open and public hearing before being condemned," said R. N. Magee, secretary of the club.

A deputy game warden killed one recently when citizens complained it attacked them. Friends of the elk however claimed the animal "merely was doing a little panhandling."

CO-OP EFFORTS AID CANADIANS

Farmers In Central British Columbia Operate Novel Community Affair.

(By United Press)

FRANCOIS LAKE, B. C.—The settlers along the shores of Francois Lake in Central British Columbia are writing a new chapter in the history of co-operative effort.

The small group of farmers and ranchers have "chipped in" liberally with their time, money and labor and have built stores, a sports center, community hall and a modern seed cleaning plant that supplies seeds to all parts of Canada.

The experiment, and particularly the stores and "co-ops" operated by the Farmers' Institute, are being watched with great interest by surrounding communities.

The seed plant, operated by the Central B. C. Seed Growers Association, stands on the north shore of the lake. A group of energetic farmers formed the association and built the plant about six years ago, and today it is known by every seed house in the Dominion, particularly for the quality of timothy seed raised and sold through the association.

The community hall stands near the ferry landing, not far from the seed plant. It was built entirely by volunteer workers, and contains a gymnasium equipped for badminton, basketball, card-playing and dancing. The sports center includes a baseball diamond, track field and small park. The community and sports centers are already paying dividends, the organizers say, in the scarcity of juvenile delinquency and the strong bodies being built up on the sports fields.

The co-op stores were started through the Farmers' Institute, and are operated by managers appointed by the institute, which makes a check on their activities every month. The volume of business of each is growing month by month, and more stores are scheduled to be opened soon.

Warns Farmers To Protect Herds Against Mastitis

COLUMBUS— (AP)—Prevention of mastitis in dairy herds is much more practical than attempts to cure the trouble after it is acquired, in the opinion of C. L. Blackman, dairy husbandry specialist at Ohio State university. He says mastitis may be due to anyone of a variety of causes and that there is no sure cure for the malady.

The preventative measures recommended by Blackman include protection of the udder from injury, segregation of infected cows and use of disinfectants to prevent spread of mastitis. Hard lumps in a cow's udder indicate the animal has had and may still have chronic mastitis.

Udder injuries are caused by short stalls, lack of bedding, sudden chilling caused by drafts or wet floors, too much pressure on milking machines, and leaving the machine on the cow too long.

Every case of mastitis should be treated as being highly infectious. Cows with mastitis should be milked after the milking of the rest of the herd is finished. The milking should be handled so it can not contaminate healthy cows and badly infected cows should be permanently removed from the herd.

ARMY COMPILES SAFETY RECORD

CAMP STEWART, Ga. —(U.P.)— Probably a world's record in safe driving has been set by the 209th coast artillery here with enough driving to encircle the world 47 times—and no deaths from accident.

The regiment boasts of only one accident in its 1,175,000 miles of driving during the past nine months. That mishap occurred during the recent maneuvers when four soldiers received minor injuries.

This feat was accomplished over all types of roads and during extensive blackout operations.

NEED EGGS FOR HAIR

LONDON —(U.P.)— British men, worried about becoming baldheaded, have begun taking sulphur tablets to make up for the deficiency of that element in their diet because of the egg shortage. Dieticians have pointed out that the egg is rich in sulphur which is necessary for hair health.

YES, LADIES, WAR IS—

PUEBLO, Colo—(U.P.)—War or no war, a woman's age is still her own business. Women volunteers for defense work are submitting to any number of rigorous jobs without question, but when they come to the question of age on the application blank, they balk almost without exception.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION

PAIN IN THE NECK

VICHY—(U.P.)—This bellyache became a diplomatic headache. When French Minister M. Chataignau had to call a doctor to relieve stomach pains only two doctors were available — one British, one German. He called the British doctor. The German legation protested the slight to Berlin and Vichy ordered Chataignau to apologize.

SPROUTS VITAMIN SOURCE

BERKELEY, Cal. — (U.P.) — If a vitamin shortage is encountered Chinese dishes will fill the bill according to Harry M. Butterfield of U. of C. Agricultural service. Bean sprouts, common ingredient of chow mein, are rich in vitamins and the beans can be made to sprout two inches in 72 hours.

CREDIT EXPERT SEES NO PINCH IN U. S. CURBS

Restrictions on Buying Is Called Healthy For Business.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO — The tightening of installment buying by the government as an emergency measure in no way will affect credit buying as the foundation of American industry, according to Ray C. Wilson of Salt Lake City, Utah, president of the National Association of Credit Men

"The abolition of installment buying would lead to disaster, but merely placing an 18-month limit on it, as has been done, will serve to make the public credit conscious and will lessen the current credit risks at little decrease in present buying power," he said

Wilson met here with other credit managers from the western states to prepare for the vast increase in business which they foresee in the west as a result of the national defense program.

"Installment buying is here to stay" he declared

He pointed out that 95 per cent of all purchases in the United States are made on credit Without it he said the country could not have developed into such a great industrial nation

"If this sound fantastic" he said, "then realize that some 20,000 manufacturers of nationally advertised products sell their goods to jobbers and retailers on credit

"Hundreds of thousands of retailers pass the goods on to the consumer on credit Completing the cycle, the manufacturers purchase their raw materials, tools and plants on credit

"The government is spending $3,107 000 for defense needs on the Pacific coast Thousands of new retail stores and jobbers will be springing up during the next three or four years

"It is up to the members of the National Association of Credit Men to study their needs and to extend credit on a sound basis and then protect them against failure

"That is just what we are doing now"

ASKS $25,000 IN BUS CRASH

Suit Filed In Behalf of Girl Following Mishap Involving School Vehicle.

Injury of a 14-year-old school girl in a traffic mishap as she alighted from a school bus in Olivesburg last Dec 2 had resulted today in the filing of a $25 000 damage suit in Richland county common pleas court.

The action, naming Adam Weisgarber of Massillon as defendant, was brought in behalf of Frances Henry, 11, by Charles Henry as her next friend

The girl was struck by Weisgarber's truck as she crossed state route 603 the petition states She suffered serious injuries to her right leg and left thigh and cuts and bruises on her body which confined her to the hospital for 89 days according to the petition

The plaintiff contends that the truck operated by Adam Weisgarber, jr was being operated at excessive speed and failed to slow up for the school bus Attorney G W Marriott is the plaintiff's counsel

Five Richland Teams Prep for District Tourney Play

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Mansfield keglers have contributed $670 toward the record breaking entry fee total of $307,895 boasted by this year's American Bowling Congress tournament which opened at Columbus Tuesday night.

The $670 was turned in by 10 Mansfield five-man teams, 21 doubles teams, and 42 single contestants.

* * *

First Mansfield team to take the A. B. C alleys will be the Buckeye Beers on Thursday, March 12, at 7 p. m., according to the tournament schedule received in this office yesterday.

Mansfield Liederkranz No. 2 team will follow at 9 p m on the same date Bookmakers will line up at the right and chant this little ditty

* * *

Now who would care to take a chance
On Buckeye Beers and Liederkranz?

A full month will elapse before the next invasion of the A. B. C. lanes by Mansfield teams.

On Wednesday, April 15, Mansfield Rug & Linoleum, Mansfield Printing, Lutz Lumber, Mansfield Tire No. 11, Eagles and Orange Street Cafe will dust off their mineralites at 8:30 p. m.

And later in the evening at 10:30 p. m. Bissman Birdie Brands and Liederkranz No. 1 will swing into action.

* * *

These teams stay over for doubles and singles the next day, with the following doubles teams booked for 11:40 a. m · Pete Grohol-Elzie Whitcomb, Henry Heiser-Johnny Perrine, Jim Orr-Bob Bieri, Orlie Grable-Art Thomas, Ed Henrich-Carl Phillipon, Fritz Vogel-Ray Friday, John Graf-Wayne Anthony, Henry Brinkman-Andrew Stash, Jim Weems-Frank Burton, Bill Fenn-L. Wolf, Jess Willard-Joe Leathers, Ray Shively-J. Thieding, Carl Wiseman-Pete Linster, R C. Lutz-Sherm Wentz, Al Sheppard-H. Smith.

At 4:40 p. m. these doubles teams will perform: Ira Keefer-Bill Donnellan, Duke Weber-Nick Schmidt, Henry Michaels-Harold Selby, Dale Cleckner-Harold LeMunyon, Johnny Leppo-Art Hilborn, Winnie Cleckner-Farrell Hipp.

I hope all the boys get home all right. It shouldn't be nearly so tough a trip as the one back from St. Paul last spring.

* * *

"You could have written a book," the Moose bowlers tell me, "about our trip to Ft. Wayne last week-end, starting with the time we left the club on Saturday morning to catch the train, until we hit the club again on Sunday night."

"But," I asked them, "could I have gotten it printed?"

"If you would," they promised, "we'd sue you."

It just goes to show you what a little suggestion will do.

I never dreamed when I wrote in this column a week ago that Ft. Wayne put out the glad hand to visiting firemen that any of the Mansfield Moose would join the fire department while in the Hoosier hot spot.

But they tell me Art Hilborn is a mean man with a fire extinguisher and an open transom of a hotel room door.

REFORMATORY CAGERS TRIM MARION MOOSE

Ohio State reformatory cagers galloped through the Marion Moose team yesterday, 62-33, on the Mansfield court. Busler of the Moose club and Steck of the Reformatarions tied for scoring honors with 12 points each.

Shelby First to See Action at Sandusky

Madison Battles Ashland, Tygers Take On Sandusky In First Round

By REX HESS, News-Journal Sports Editor.

COACHES of Richland county's five district tournament bound high school basketball teams are letting their charges take it easy today so they'll be fresh tomorrow night for their first tourney tilts, and won't find that they've left their game in the gym back home.

For the first time in the history of the present state tournament setup, Richland county sends three teams to the district Class A joust at Sandusky tomorrow night, Madison joining Mansfield and Shelby in the "big school" classic.

Union and Lucas cagers will go to Bascom tomorrow night for the Class B tourney.

Shelby's Whippets will be the first Richland team to see action at Sandusky, tangling with Port Clinton in the tourney opener at 6 p. m. tomorrow.

Coach Bill Query hasn't seen Port Clinton in action this winter, but "on the record, I think we have a pretty good chance," the Shelby mentor declared today

"We lost early in the season to Willard 11-20, and Willard defeated Port Clinton twice, one game going into overtime. Our game with Willard came before the boys had found their shooting eyes, as they made only two baskets in 50 shots.

"As a matter of fact we haven't been a good shooting team all season," Query admitted, "although we've had a pretty fair floor team Last week against Galion we finally found the bucket, and our practice this week has devoted mainly to keeping the location of the hoops. If we can hit, I think we may win that Sandusky opener"

Query announced he would take the following squad to Sandusky: Bob Laubie, Dave Lewis, Dave Clark, Ralph Higgins, Bill Emmick, Don Cline, Francis Hiatt, George Perman, Bob Moore and Herb Poland.

In the second game tomorrow night at 7:15 Madison battles Ashland, co-champion of the North Central Ohio league, and victor over the Rams in a charity game this winter 50-30.

But the Rams aren't defeated before playing this game. "We don't like to take it twice on the chin from the same club," said Madison Mentor Al Fendrick, "and you can tell one and all that we'll be in there fighting to win that game tomorrow night.

* * *

"We've been polishing up our offense, and trying to improve our shooting this week, and we hope we have a way figured out to stop Prentice and Stentz and Barkley from getting too many points."

Al named these ten boys on his tournament squad: Delbert Poston, Willie Wynn, Harold Hammer, Ken Windsor, Max Roberts, John Gross, Dick Bader, Dick and Jack Selby and John Shriver.

With high hopes of playing in two games this week, Mansfield Tyger Tutor Vern Hoffman has been letting his boys take it easy all week Mansfield meets Sandusky tomorrow at 8:30 p. m., and Sandusky remembers a 47-26 pasting handed them in mid-season by the Tygers

In that game Mansfield held a 13-2 lead at the quarter and 21-7 at the half, and Sandusky didn't get a basket until the last minute of the first half. Paul Dietzel and Bob Winbigler each got 17 points during the game. Jack Shiplet and Ken Krupp were the starting guards for Mansfield then, and both are lost to the Tygers now, but the ball-handling which awed Sandusky fans that night hasn't suffered much.

If they repeat their earlier victory over the Blue Streaks, the Tygers will meet the winner of the Bellevue-Norwalk Saturday at 8:30.

The Tygers held only a blackboard drill Monday, practice less than an hour Tuesday, about an hour and a half Wednesday, and have another short session of less than an hour scheduled today. They've gone back to drills on fundamentals of ball-handling and cutting, and have been working against a zone defense, used by most of the teams in the Sandusky tourney

Hoffman will take his regulars, Paul Dietzel Bob Winbigler, Dean Hahn, Joe Romano and Joe Altamonte, and his first line replacements, Jim Robinson and Al Hager, and will bring up three players from the reserve squad, Andy Lamoreux, Bob Baker and Russ McBride.

A. N. Smith and Paul Bannick, both of Elyria, will be the regular tournament officials, and will be relieved the first two nights by Don Rettig, Toledo Scott football coach.

Both Union and Lucas will take the same squads to the Bascom tournament that appeared in the Richland county tournament last week-end.

Union meets Dola at 7.45 tomorrow night, the runner-up team in the Hardin county tournament which was won by Forest, only Bascom entry to draw a first-round bye.

Dola won 13 games and lost seven during the season, and beyond that little is known here of the Union foe.

Lucas takes on Wharton at 10 15, a team that won only nine and lost 10 games during the winter, but which, came through with the Wyandotte county tourney title. A giant six-foot, 3-inch center has been Wharton's chief offensive threat

Except for one hard scrimmage against an alumni team, Lucas also has been taking it easy this week in order to have a fresh club for the tournament.

Tigers, Goons Win Settlement Games

The Tigers downed the Red Birds, 30-28, and the All-Stars trimmed the Goons, 25-24, yesterday in Friendly House Intermediate White league cage play on the institution floor.

* * *

High scorers were Earhart of the Goons with eight points, Flock of the All-Stars with the same number of tallies and Rudolph of the Tigers with 21 points scored on 10 baskets and one free throw.

COPIES VANDY

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Young George Burpo, rookie pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, seems to have made Johnny Vander Meer the model for his career. He can throw almost as hard as Vandy, the double no-hit man of 1938, and has a habit of walking the first three men, fanning the fourth, and making the fifth hit into a double play, even as Vandy did.

Selby Shines In A-League

Rolls 278 Game and 677 Total, Tops Loop.

Harold Selby turned on the heat last night at Colony alleys to pace the City "A" bowling league with a 677 total and high game of 278.

Selby's high mark, plus Bill Donnellan's 602, and a 147-pin handicap gave Liederkranz a 3,058 total and a shutout victory over Bissman Birdie Brands.

Farrell Hipp rolled a 642 total, including a 230 game for the Buds.

Art Thomas chalked up a 661 total on consistent games of 224-217-220. Jim Weems made a bid for top honors with a 267 game in his 639 string, and Nick Weber rolled a 244 game but failed to get 600.

Orlie Grable had 606, Carl Wiseman 602, and George Gump 602.

HE'S WELL NAMED

MARYSVILLE, Mo. — (AP) — It's for good reason that they call Wilbur Stalcup, Maryville's basketball coach, the "jumping bean" of the M. I. A. A. league. Usually he fidgets away about 15 pounds during a basketball season while watching his Bearcats in action.

Orlie Grable Paces Westie-A

Bangs Out 648 Total, Tied For High Game.

Orlie Grable banged out a 648 total for top honors in the Westinghouse "A" bowling league last night at Colony alleys on games of 189-242-217.

He was tied for high game at 242 by S Miller.

Rookie of Year?

LESLIE FLEMING

One of the best rookie prospects in the southern training camps this spring, Leslie Fleming, above, is bidding for the first base job on the Cleveland club. Fleming, who hit .414 for Nashville last season, is being groomed to replace Hal Trosky at the initial sack. Trosky has announced he will play no ball this year, hoping to return in 1943 if he finds relief from the severe headaches which bothered him last season.

Rice Named Best AAU Athlete

NEW YORK — (UP) — For the third consecutive year Gregory Rice has been named the outstanding athlete of the national AAU indoor track and field championships

Rice, who broke the world three-mile record in the meet at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, was selected by a vote of the fans.

The former Notre Dame star, now competing for the New York A. C. received 14,266 points. Gil Dodds, Boston A. A. runner who scored an upset win over Les MacMitchell, polled 9,244 points. Al Blozis, John Borican and Fred Wolcott finished behind them in that order.

Big 10 May Scrap Sked

Conference Faction For Playing Service Teams.

CHICAGO — (UP) — In an all-out effort to co-ordinate its program with that of service teams, the Western conference may scrap its 1942 football schedule, it was reported today as Big Ten athletic directors met to discuss war-time policies.

The carefully drafted Big Ten football schedules are drawn in advance from three to five years, but a powerful conference faction purportedly favors delaying fulfillment of some gridiron commitments until after the war.

"We have pledged ourselves to co-operate in providing competition for service teams and entertainment for the enlisted men," a spokesman said, "and there's no better way to do it than by meeting Army, Navy and Marine teams during the coming football season. Under the schedule as drawn now the number of contests with the service teams would be limited, so it may be necessary to postpone for the duration some of our regular conference commitments"

Under the present schedule there are only nine open dates on the composite 1942 schedule Four of these are Sept 26, the first Saturday of the season, and two others are the second week of the campaign.

BOUDREAU PICKS SQUADS FOR INTRA CLUB GAME

CLEARWATER, Fla. — (AP) — Manager Lou Boudreau nominated Al Milnar, Jim Bagby and Steve Gromek to pitch for one team and Al Smith, Clint Brown and Peter Center for the other in the Cleveland Indians' first intra-squad game today. Center is the only rookie.

Mel Harder, veteran hurler who underwent an operation in the fall for removal of several bone chips from his throwing elbow, had his first workout yesterday and found the movement easy and painless. Harder was released unconditionally but is working out with the Tribe.

NELSON LEADS GOLFERS AT ST. PETERSBURG

ST. PETERSBURG — (UP) — Byron Nelson, Toledo, started the second round of the $5,000 St. Petersburg golf tournament today with a one-stroke lead from an opening four-under-par 68.

One stroke back of Nelson with 69's were Al Branch, Farmingdale, N. Y., and the veteran Billy Burke, Belleair, Fla.

Music Fails ABC Tourney

Union, 'Juke' Box Won't Deliver National Anthem.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The American Bowling Congress had to dispense with the national anthem at its tournament when both the musicians' union and a "juke" box held out.

The Elks' national championship band was to have played "The Star Spangled Banner," but the Musicians' federation of Columbus ordered its members not to participate.

Arthur E. Streng, president, said they were glad to play free at civic affairs, but that the ABC tournament was commercial and had declined to hire a band.

* * *

George Doyle, who had charge of the ceremony insisted it was a civic and patriotic undertaking.

Unable to get a band, the ABC turned last night to an electrical recording of the National anthem, but a record-playing machine refused to function.

Another 108 five-man booster teams went to the alleys today, hoping to better the 2674 rolled in their class by the Little Phil Inn of Somerset, O., yesterday.

* * *

The I. T. S. Rubber Heels of Elyria, continued to pace the five-man event with 2752 Other leaders were doubles Chester Henderson and Pearl Robinson of Lima, 1205, singles, George Engbers of Grand Rapids, Mich., 645, and all-events, Howard Dammel of Cincinnati, 1830.

Two Teams Go To Tourney

High Scores Listed For Crowns, Colony.

Members of the Colony team are: Bernice Reno, Juanita Miles, Lois Williams, Ann Hergatt and Gerry Merryman.

Mansfield Moose women already have won second place in Class "D" as bowling in that division was completed last Sunday. Subscription, Springfield, won with 1996. The Mansfield second-place score was 1919.

KNOW THEIR FOES

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (AP) — Coach Hub McQuillan, of Texas Christian, hands each one of his basketball players a picture of the fellow he will oppose in TCU's next game. "Look at this thing, learn your guy's face, his number and what he had for breakfast," says McQuillan. He believes in being familiar with the fellow you have to fight.

TRIBE TO HELP TIFFIN WITH PLAYERS IN '42

TIFFIN — (INS) — The Tiffin baseball club has completed arrangements with the Cleveland Indians to supply help and players for the 1942 season, the Ohio State league team's president, Charles Le Crone, announced today.

Le Crone also announced that Tiffin would play twilight games. Doy Bayliss, Tiffin pitcher, will be sent to Charleston, W. Va., of the Mid-Atlantic league, for a tryout, he said.

Toledo Loses Garden Game

Long Island U. Trims Crippled Ohio Squad.

Crippled by the loss of their high-scoring center, Bob Gerber, Toledo university's basketball team received its third defeat in 24 starts last night at Madison Square Garden, New York. Long Island university turned the trick, 43 to 38

* * *

Gerber was in a New York hospital, suffering a leg infection, as his squad fell before a team which has lost only two of 26 games this season.

* * *

A crowd of 16 473 saw the Toledo lads pull away in the first period and lead 25-23 at intermission. Long Island tied the score as the last half opened, then built up a six-point lead and held off the visitors during the remainder of the game.

* * *

High spot in Ohio was a 51-35 victory of the star-studded Great Lakes Naval training station squad over Ohio university at Athens.

The Navy boys took an early lead and were ahead 30-11 at the half. Forward Frankie Baumholtz, playing against his former Ohio U. teammates, scored two field goals.

Akron trampled John Carroll 48-30 at Cleveland after taking an 11-0 lead in the first eight minutes of play and leading at the half, 26-21. It was Akron's 16th win in 19 games

Bierman Sent To U. of Iowa

Will Head Navy Program at Air Training School.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Maj Bernard H Bierman of the U S Marine corps—known to the football fans as Bernie—has been given a coaching assignment on the campus of the University of Iowa which was his rival when he coached the Minnesota Gophers

The navy department announced that the former Minnesota football coach has been named athletic director and head football coach of the navy's newly-established pre-flight training school at the University of Iowa.

Bierman will supervise an ambitious program that will include nationally-known coaches in basketball soccer, boxing wrestling swimming, track and baseball as well as a large intramural program the navy said

More Fighting Yanks Arrive In North Ireland

Members of the second contingent of American combat troops to arrive in North Ireland are pictured as they walked off their convoyed troopship. This contingent of "several thousand" men will bolster the forces of the A. E. F. which arrived in Ulster last Jan. 26. This is a radiophoto from London.

THEATERS

Shifting Locale.

When a film story spans the seven seas and three continents the process of obtaining suitable locales offers problems to the producers. "Son of Fury," the Tyrone Power picture showing at the Ohio, starts in Bristol, England, continues aboard a three-masted sailing vessel to a Tahitian island invested with dancing natives and colorful pageantry, and then returns to an historic English court, a country estate and the fascinating work shop of an old gun maker. Most of these sets were constructed in the studio while others, such as some of the South Sea episodes, were filmed on actual location. Frances Farmer and Gene Tierney support Power in the picture.

Society Background.

"Right to the Heart," the story of a society playboy who turns to the art of training for self-defense when he tires of being bounced out of clubs, is the attraction at the Madison. Joseph Allen, jr., plays the role and the cast includes Brenda Joyce and Cobina Wright, jr. Miss Joyce plays the daughter of the maker of champion fighters while Miss Wright has the role of a cafe siren. "North of the Klondike," depicting the war between farming settlers and crooked miners in the year 1911, is the co-feature. Brod Crawford, Andy Devine and Lon Chaney top the cast.

Business Comedy.

Bruce Edwards and Brenda Joyce are teamed in "Marry the Boss' Daughter," the Ritz headliner dealing with a young man who believes in starting at the top instead of at the bottom. George Barbier plays the businessman-father who is persuaded by his daughter to give the young man a chance. The attempted kidnaping of a wealthy society girl furnishes action in the second picture, "Let 'em Have It," starring Bruce Cabot and Richard Arlen and Virginia Bruce.

Shopgirl Romance.

The whirlwind romance of a millionaire youth and a Palm Beach shopgirl is gaily depicted in "Unexpected Uncle," the Park attraction featuring James Craig, Anne Shirley and Charles Coburn. Coburn poses as the girl's uncle although he is actually a middle-aged adventurer living by his wits. The story takes place in Palm Beach. Maxie Rosenbloom and Rochelle Hudson are featured in the comedy, "The Stork Pays Off," showing as the second feature. Rosenbloom and Victor Jory play gangsters who trade their guns for aprons and play mother to a nursery.

"Mud" Gardner's SALE of USED CARS

Leaving March 11th For Duty With Uncle Sam's Air Force—

MUST SACRIFICE ENTIRE STOCK OF 65 FINE USED CARS!

BUY NOW AND SAVE!

Dear Friends:

If you were planning on purchasing a used car next month, you will save money if you BUY NOW instead, and you will aid me greatly in clearing up my business before I leave next Wednesday for the U. S. Army Air Corps. If you have a car now, come in, we will make you a very pleasing deal. If you intend to buy a car without a trade-in . . . no reasonable offer will be refused.

It is my hope that circumstances will permit the continued operation of my business during my absence. Sincere thanks to you, the people of Mansfield, for your good will during the past 30 years, and best wishes for happiness and health to my many friends and patrons.

"Yours for Victory,"
R. B. "Mud" Gardner.

STOCK MARKET STUMBLES OVER BAD WAR NEWS

U. S. Rubber Drops Seven Points To New Low, Others Decline.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market continued to stumble over depressing war news today.

U. S. Rubber Preferred dropped about 7 points to a new 1942 low in the wake of dividend deferment on this issue.

On the offside were Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber Common, United Aircraft, International Harvester, Kennecott, American Telephone, Du Pont, Johns-Manville and Standard Oil (N.J.)

Japanese successes in Java and Burma, more than anything else, brokers said, restrained those with buying intentions. Selling to raise cash for income tax payments also was a factor. Business developments provided nothing much in the way of speculative or investment stimulus.

Market analysts studied the survey of the Engineering News-Record disclosing heavy building activities for the week ended Tuesday fell 45 per cent under the 1942 peak of the week before but exceeded the comparable period last year by 40 per cent. Slackening of public construction accounted for the recession from the preceding week.

PREPARES UNITS FOR EMERGENCY

Salvation Army Readies Area Kitchen and Shelters; Hoffman In Charge.

The work of setting up emergency kitchens and shelter stations to be used in the event of disaster in the five-county area comprising Richland, Ashland, Knox, Wayne and Holmes counties today had been assigned to Adjt. Paul Hoffman, Mansfield, chairman of the Salvation Army's defense program in this area.

Although his appointment was received only yesterday from national headquarters, the local adjutant had already conferred with Ashland and Mt. Vernon units in regard to the program.

The Ashland army is now making preparations to set up a kitchen prepared to serve a meal to 150 persons with one and a-half hours' notice. The city will provide facilities.

Housing accommodations for 75 persons will be set up at the Mansfield citadel along with a first aid depot, according to Hoffman.

Plans to equip small trucks and automobiles with feeding facilities so that they can speed to the scene of disaster are also underway.

RITES PLANNED

Funeral for Mrs. Grace Malone Set Saturday at Shelby.

SHELBY—Funeral services for Mrs. Grace Malone, 66, wife of Levi D., Shelby industrialist and bank president, who died Wednesday at the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, Md., will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday from the Dye funeral home here with Dr. Arthur Staples, pastor of First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be made in the Greenlawn cemetery in Plymouth.

The body arrived here today from Baltimore and was taken to the Dye funeral home where friends may call Friday afternoon and evening.

Born in Richland county on Jan. 28, 1876, Mrs. Malone had lived here a long number of years where her husband was president of Shelby Spring Hinge company, Shelby Building and Loan company and the First National bank. She was a member of First Methodist church.

Surviving are the husband; two daughters, Mrs. Burton Morse of Shelby and Miss Beatrice Malone of Baltimore, Md.; two sisters, Mrs. Frederick BeVier of near Shelby and Miss Agnes McBride of Shiloh; a brother, Arthur McBride of Shiloh; and two grandchildren.

TOWN CAN BUILD

Court Ruling Clears Way for Municipal Power Plant.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The state supreme court today cleared the way for the village of Amherst to build and operate its own electric power plant when a taxpayers appeal by J. C. Aldrich, an Amherst resident, was ruled out.

Common pleas court had refused to issue an injunction requested by Aldrich.

BARES SHORTAGE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Leon Henderson told the senate defense investigating committee today that "not a single pound of crude rubber" would be available for new tires or retreads on the upwards of 30,000,000 passenger cars now owned by the ordinary citizen in this country.

The director of civilian supplies, who is a war production board member, testified that this was the "most significant single statistic" among a maze of details on the rubber situation which he would offer later before the senate investigatign group.

Henderson said that present calculations of supplies for the United Nations "did not allow a single pound of rubber either for new tires, or camel-backs for any of the 30,000,000-odd passenger cars in this country."
